Rusk Sees Progress In New Parley

Secretary-Dobrynin Talks On Berlin Termed 'Fruitful'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported today to be moderately satisfied after the first of his talks on Berlin with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin—a talk that was conducted in English without interpreters.

It was also understood that Rusk—after a short cooling-off period—has decided to brief the Allies on his conversation with Dobrynin Monday.

This policy of consulting with the Allies on any Berlin move was almost wrecked over the weekend by the news leak from Bonn about U.S. proposals for a new round of Berlin discussions.

Officials here said the leak had jeopardized seriously the Rusk-Dobrynin talks and shaken U.S. confidence in the West Germans.

Both Rusk and Dobrynin described Monday's session as fruitful and businesslike, and officials believe the talks will be resumed shortly, probably later this month.

One purpose of the meeting is to set procedures for future talks —including where and when they will be held.

Officials said Rusk and Dobrynin had agreed tentatively to hold the fourth round of exploratory talks in Washington. Rusk is reported to feel that a fresh start with a new participant on the Soviet side and in a different locale might create a more favorable atmosphere to break the deadlock over Berlin.

The first round was between Rusk and Andrei A. Gromyko, the Soviet foreign minister, in New York last fall. It was followed by conferences in Moscow between Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson. A third round took place in Geneva last month, also between Rusk and Gromyko.

Rusk told his aides he had discussed with the Soviet ambassador his Geneva talks with Gromyko, to set a firm footing for future talks.

U.S. officials said privately that the Bonn leak, revealing the Berlin settlement proposals Washington wants to discuss, had annoyed the Kennedy administration—including the President himself.

Bonn, officials said, has been told in unmistakable terms that Washington seriously questions the value of inter-Allied consultations if such things can happen.

While informants confirm that the points mentioned in the Bonn stories are basically correct, they also say they represent only a fraction of the issues Rusk could bring up in his talks with Dobrynin.

In brief, the four U.S. proposals are: internalization of the Berlin access route; a nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations and the Communist Warsaw Pact nations; a U.S.-Soviet agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons; and establishment of joint East-West German committees.

Loan Planned To Clear Bills

$15,049 Still Owed On 1961 Accounts

Council approved a motion Monday night authorizing Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate to borrow approximately $5,000 against anticipated income tax revenue to help pay off the remaining $15,049 in unpaid city bills carried over from 1961.

Unanimous approval was given the motion, presented by Councilman George E. Willshaw, chairman of the finance committee.

At the beginning of 1962, the city has $17,109 in unpaid bills from last year, Willshaw said. In the last three months, some of the accounts have been paid, but the accumulation still totals $15,049, he explained.

Approximately $10,000 remains from the amount collected under the 1961 city income tax and the finance committee has authorized the auditor to use the money to help pay off the old bills, Willshaw explained.

But another $5,000 still is needed "to clear the slate," he said. He suggested borrowing against anticipated receipts from the new city income tax, enacted last March 2. Councilman S. James Welch seconded and the motion passed without further comment.

Commission Proposed

Varied Reaction Greets New Plan For Steel Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal that President Kennedy establish a commission to study the steel industry's economic troubles drew Democratic support and some Republican skepticism today.

Kennedy was scheduled to get at a White House conference a suggestion by acting Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey that the President create a nonpartisan commission to examine steel pricing policies, capital needs and other factors.

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., vice chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, applauded this as offering a way to get basic information he said Congress may not have the time nor facilities to dig up.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said in a separate interview he thought it would be very useful to set up such a commission. He said it could supplement the work of his own Senate Antitrust subcommittee in sifting cost information in an effort to arrive at a fair price for steel.

But Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., expressed skepticism as to whether such a commission set up by a Democratic president whose pressures led to a rollback of steel price increases could be counted on for nonpolitical findings.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said the results would depend on who the President appointed as members of the commission. He said he hoped any inquiry by such a group wouldn't be punitive.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, told a conference of Republican women Monday night she could applaud the results obtained by Kennedy in rolling back the steel price rise but could not condone his tactics.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., speaking before the same group, won applause with an attack on the methods Kennedy used.

"When we have a president who takes it upon himself to set prices in this country," he said, "then I suggest every man, woman and child knows what we are up against. Our opposition is committed to change our way of life."

Later, at a news conference in New York, Goldwater called Kennedy's action a "threat to the free enterprise system."

In the Senate Monday, Humphrey said the inquiry he was proposing "should not be conducted in a partisan spirit or as a vendetta."

"It should be fair and comprehensive," the Minnesotan said. "It should be removed from all possible party or partisan considerations." He suggested appointment of representatives of management and labor, economists, financiers and the public.

He called for a report within a year on the condition of steel plants, the need for modernization and automation, requirements of expanded investment, productivity increases per worker per hour and financing needs to keep American steel competitive in world markets.

Apathy Seen In Hancock's Primary Vote

Only Commissioner Race Stirs Interest In 'Off-Year' Ballot

Interest appears slight and growing only slowly in Hancock County's primary May 8, a typical picture for a "short" ballot in an off-year election.

A total of 21,071 voters are eligible to nominate candidates to three of the top offices in county government, plus a member of the House of Delegates and state senator.

What little interest displayed thus far has been stirred by a race for county commissioner from Clay District.

The term is for six years and the post pays $225 a month. The Democratic party lists three candidates and the GOP, a pair.

The Democrats are Lyle F. Virden of Pughtown, a general contractor and incumbent commissioner; Robert E. (Chick) Roach, 54, of New Cumberland, a high school teacher since 1929 and former member of the House of Delegates, and Dr. James E. Fisher of New Cumberland.

The GOP aspirants are W. Blair Patterson, 47, of New Cumberland, a former town councilman and employe of Weirton Steel Co., and James Arehart, 55, of Pughtown, a welder at Weirton Steel and conservationist and outdoors enthusiast.

Holdover county commissioners are William C. Graham of Chester and James Finley of Weirton. Virden is seeking a second term.

Voters will also nominate candidates for county clerk and circuit court clerk. Both posts are for six years and the county clerk's salary is $6,500 annually,

Midland Phone Users To Share In Rate Cut

Midland area subscribers of the Bell Telephone Co. and others served by the Pennsylvania utility will share in the $1½ million reduction in local service rates ordered Monday at Harrisburg by the state's Public Utility Commission.

Pennsylvania Bell was ordered to show PUC within 15 days how it will effect the lower price schedule to take place within the next 45 days.

The reduction for Bell's 2,626,000 customers will vary depending on type of service but it will average about 5 cents a month. Toll charges are not affected.

Board Adopts Plan Recommended By Group From OEA

An entirely new salary schedule, calling for increases for all teaching personnel, was adopted Monday night by the Southern Local Board of Education.

The new schedule, providing for five classifications, was recommended by a professional group from the Ohio Education Association.

The group, headed by Dr. Robert Miner and including Murray Russell and William Readout, has been making a salary survey of the system for some time in conjunction with the Southern Local Teachers Association, the board, principals and administrators.

The proposal was prepared at a conference with Dr. Miner Monday afternoon and presented last night.

Dr. Miner said there is enough money in the present appropriation to handle the additional costs, approximately $25,000 to $30,000 annually.

There are 49 classified instructors, which includes administrators, in the system.

The beginning salary for a teacher with two years training was set at $3,400 with six increments up to $4,000. Three-year

Mrs. Leah Kelly Gets Post As 'Meter Maid'

Mrs. Leah Kelly, 2019 Ohio Ave., formerly an alternate, was appointed Monday as a regular "Meter Maid" to fill the vacancy created March 30 by the resignation of Mrs. Joan Cartwright, Safety-Service Director Robert Owen said today.

Mrs. Cartwright's resignation took effect Sunday, at the end of her two-week vacation period. Mrs. Kelly has served as an alternate for about two and a half years, working while the regulars were off duty on vacations or because of illness, Owen explained. The posts pay $1.37 hourly.

'Legal' Bingo Seen Unlikely

State Lottery Laws Cited For Council

There's little possibility Council will enact legislation legalizing bingo in East Liverpool because lotteries are contrary to state law and the Ohio Constitution, Councilman Edward Massey commented Monday night.

Massey made the remark after Councilman Floyd Murray presented a petition signed Sunday by 82 members of the Boyce Methodist Church asking Council "to uphold the Ohio state law on bingo."

Representatives of various groups affiliated with St. Aloysius Catholic Church requested Council April 9 to allow resumption of bingo in East Liverpool, subject to municipal licensing and control.

"I think these petitions are a little premature," Massey commented. "I have looked into the law and as far as I can see, this Council has no way of authorizing bingo or any other form of gambling."

"Even though we authorized bingo, a state man or our own police department could step in and shut it down immediately," Massey continued. "Until something is done to change the state law, Council can't do anything. I hope the people won't get all worried about it."

Murray replied that he did not feel the petition was "premature."

"It only requests us to uphold the state law on bingo," he said.

Earlier, the Boyce Church petition was received and filed without comment.

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP)—An explosion ripped through several buildings and injured more than 25 employes at the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. plant today.

Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. Several fires broke out after the blast occurred.

Ten persons were hospitalized. Doctors said none was believed critically hurt.

Poe Street, employe relations manager for the firm, said the noise of the explosion awoke him at his home in Elizabethtown, 30 miles away.

Several of the 20 concrete block buildings on the company's 100-acre layout were destroyed or heavily damaged.

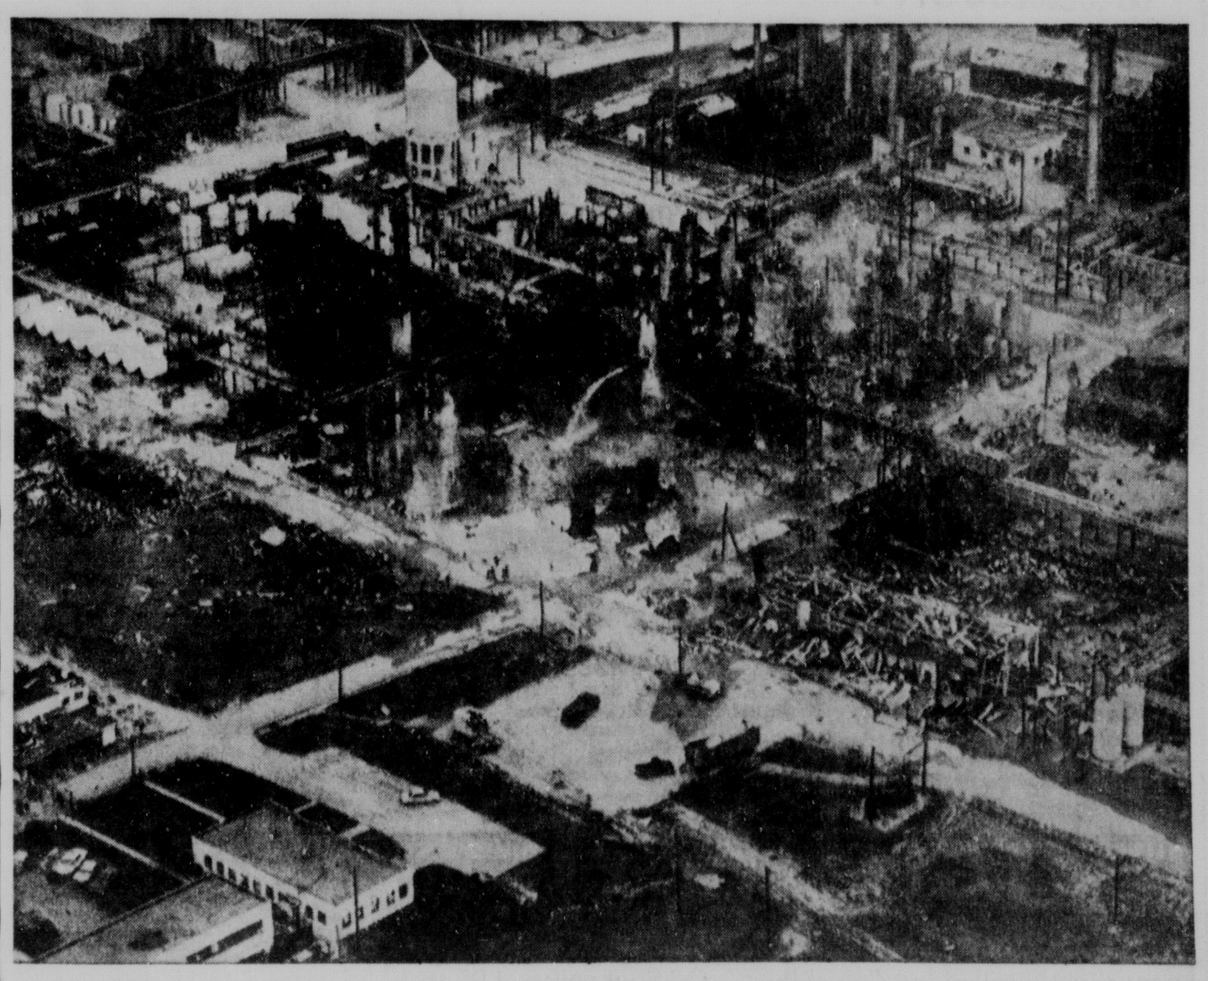

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined. It occurred at 5:10 a.m.

"It appears to have occurred in the ethylene oxide section of the building in which a compound for antifreeze is produced," Street said.

The force of the explosion blew out windows in Brandenburg, 1½ miles away. Power was disrupted in the area.

Street said that all of those in the plant walked away from the scene. One man, listed as missing for three hours, showed up at the personnel office with cuts and bruises and somewhat dazed.

The accident was the first at the plant since it went into operation in this Ohio River community 11 years ago. It employes 550 persons.

Ousted Trio Will Fight Integration

Against Archbishop Desegregation Of Parochial Schools

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three Roman Catholics, excommunicated for opposing their archbishop's order to desegregate parochial schools, vowed today to continue their battle for separation of the races.

Vatican Backs Ousting Of Segregationists

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican firmly backs an American Roman Catholic archbishop's excommunication of three segregationists, informed sources said today.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel invoked the severe spiritual penalty Monday.

The directive from the 85-year-old prelate, who eight years ago called segregation "morally wrong," expelled Leander H. Perez Sr., longtime political czar of two small parishes adjoining New Orleans; Jackson G. Ricau, an executive of prosegregation Citizens Council; and Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., Bible-quoting segregationist who once picketed the archbishop's residence.

The excommunication cuts off the three segregationists from the sacraments of the church.

The excommunication order said the three had disregarded the archbishop's earlier warning against any action which would "provoke our devoted people to disobedience or rebellion against the church."

Stores Will Stay Open Until 5 On Wednesday

Most East Liverpool stores will remain open until 5 p.m. Wednesday, rather than closing at noon, because of the Easter season shopping rush.

The decision to observe the later hours was made at the last meeting of the East Liverpool Merchants Association. For the last several years, stores generally have observed later hours on the last Wednesday prior to Easter.

Following another tradition, the stores will remain open on Good Friday afternoon, but time off will be granted to employes who wish to attend religious services.

Employes' Meeting Set

Knowles' Strike To Be Discussed

A special meeting of Edwin M. Knowles China Co. employes was to be held at 2 this afternoon to discuss a dispute over interpretation of a seniority clause which has idled some 550 workers at the Newell pottery since Friday.

In announcing the meeting at the former IBOP headquarters on W. 6th St., E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, declared the company "locked out" its employes after a Knowles' spokesman reversed his plant superintendent and department foreman on a seniority matter.

"The lockout presumably occurred after the departure of an international representative," Wheatley said, explaining international representatives have the authority to make a decision on any matter concerning grievances.

"The international union is expressing its intention to support its members in every instance when a violation of the contract occurs and the company spokesman issues an ultimatum stating 'take it or quit'."

The IBOP president continued, "It is one of many reversals that the heads of Knowles have practiced since the adoption of the seniority contract in 1959."

Wheatley said the international representative was informed the plant was to be closed down April 22 (Sunday) because of a large inventory.

"The international office is always willing to sit down with management and discuss any and all grievances, complaints, walkouts or lockouts.

"Up to this moment, no representative of Knowles has contacted me or left any message at home during any absence over the weekend," Wheatley said.

"Management interpretations of the contract in many instances have left some brutal scars and upset lives and livelihoods by their endeavors to create chaos out of a plain layoff and recall seniority clause.

"Since the adoption of the joint seniority agreement in 1959, there have been more complaints and serious grievances to the East Liverpool office than has been experienced throughout the entire in-

Win Asylum In Embassy

16 Crash Fences In Bus To Flee Castro Regime

HAVANA (AP)—Sixteen refugees from Fidel Castro's regime won asylum in the Brazilian Embassy Monday after a city bus driver had smashed his vehicle through two metal fences surrounding the building.

Cuban guards posted around the embassy were too surprised to open fire.

The driver rammed the 35-foot bus through an iron fence at the end of the embassy garden, then tore through a strong steel fence 10 feet beyond.

The passengers, including several women and children, and the driver dashed into a building on the grounds where more than 200 refugees are lodged.

The noise of the crash brought scores of neighbors flocking to the scene.

Witnesses said some of the passengers carried packages and bundles, indicating the coup had been planned in advance. One woman appeared to be pregnant.

Only the bus conductor chose to return to Cuban jurisdiction.

"I am a revolutionary," he said as he left the embassy grounds.

An hour after the escape a tow truck hauled the big British-built bus out of the garden.

It was the second such incident in recent months. Last December another group of fugitives broke into the Ecuadorean Embassy compound in a heavy truck. Guards opened fire, killing three.

The granting of asylum to refugees who make it to a foreign embassy has long been traditional in Latin America.

Probers Cite 'Windfall' By Copper Firms

$3 Million Bared As Profits Under Government Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) —Stockpiling investigators have been told copper mining companies under contract to the government were allowed to divert their shipments and sell to industry at high profits.

As a result, witnesses told a Senate subcommittee Monday, the mining companies reaped nearly $3 million in windfall profits.

The testimony came as the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., investigated copper stockpiling practices after a copper strike in 1954-5.

Symington said the strike resulted in a copper shortage in U.S. industrial plants, threatening to curtail or close operations there.

Because of that, Symington said, mining companies that were under contract to deliver copper to the stockpile or government inventories were permitted to sell this copper to industry rather than government.

Subcommittee counsel R. C. Coburn said the March-June 1955 shipments of three companies were canceled, permitting them to sell 6,378,000 pounds of copper to private industry at prices considerably higher than government contract prices.

Coburn read a letter from the Government Accounting Office which said cancellation of the contracts would result in windfall profits of some $400,000 to the three producers.

Louis Brooks, deputy assistant comptroller of the General Services Administration, said the GSA refused to cancel a portion of the contracts but the companies still netted $231,810 above what they would have made had the copper been sold to the government.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel invoked the severe spiritual penalty Monday.

The directive from the 85-year-old prelate, who eight years ago called segregation "morally wrong," expelled Leander H. Perez Sr., longtime political czar of two small parishes adjoining New Orleans; Jackson G. Ricau, an executive of prosegregation Citizens Council; and Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., Bible-quoting segregationist who once picketed the archbishop's residence.

The excommunication cuts off the three segregationists from the sacraments of the church.

The excommunication order said the three had disregarded the archbishop's earlier warning against any action which would "provoke our devoted people to disobedience or rebellion against the church."

Stores Will Stay Open Until 5 On Wednesday

Most East Liverpool stores will remain open until 5 p.m. Wednesday, rather than closing at noon, because of the Easter season shopping rush.

The decision to observe the later hours was made at the last meeting of the East Liverpool Merchants Association. For the last several years, stores generally have observed later hours on the last Wednesday prior to Easter.

Following another tradition, the stores will remain open on Good Friday afternoon, but time off will be granted to employes who wish to attend religious services.

Employes' Meeting Set

Knowles' Strike To Be Discussed

A special meeting of Edwin M. Knowles China Co. employes was to be held at 2 this afternoon to discuss a dispute over interpretation of a seniority clause which has idled some 550 workers at the Newell pottery since Friday.

In announcing the meeting at the former IBOP headquarters on W. 6th St., E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, declared the company "locked out" its employes after a Knowles' spokesman reversed his plant superintendent and department foreman on a seniority matter.

"The lockout presumably occurred after the departure of an international representative," Wheatley said, explaining international representatives have the authority to make a decision on any matter concerning grievances.

"The international union is expressing its intention to support its members in every instance when a violation of the contract occurs and the company spokesman issues an ultimatum stating 'take it or quit'."

The IBOP president continued, "It is one of many reversals that the heads of Knowles have practiced since the adoption of the seniority contract in 1959."

Wheatley said the international representative was informed the plant was to be closed down April 22 (Sunday) because of a large inventory.

"The international office is always willing to sit down with management and discuss any and all grievances, complaints, walkouts or lockouts.

"Up to this moment, no representative of Knowles has contacted me or left any message at home during any absence over the weekend," Wheatley said.

"Management interpretations of the contract in many instances have left some brutal scars and upset lives and livelihoods by their endeavors to create chaos out of a plain layoff and recall seniority clause.

"Since the adoption of the joint seniority agreement in 1959, there have been more complaints and serious grievances to the East Liverpool office than has been experienced throughout the entire in-

Probers Cite 'Windfall' By Copper Firms

$3 Million Bared As Profits Under Government Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) —Stockpiling investigators have been told copper mining companies under contract to the government were allowed to divert their shipments and sell to industry at high profits.

As a result, witnesses told a Senate subcommittee Monday, the mining companies reaped nearly $3 million in windfall profits.

The testimony came as the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., investigated copper stockpiling practices after a copper strike in 1954-5.

Symington said the strike resulted in a copper shortage in U.S. industrial plants, threatening to curtail or close operations there.

Because of that, Symington said, mining companies that were under contract to deliver copper to the stockpile or government inventories were permitted to sell this copper to industry rather than government.

Subcommittee counsel R. C. Coburn said the March-June 1955 shipments of three companies were canceled, permitting them to sell 6,378,000 pounds of copper to private industry at prices considerably higher than government contract prices.

Coburn read a letter from the Government Accounting Office which said cancellation of the contracts would result in windfall profits of some $400,000 to the three producers.

Louis Brooks, deputy assistant comptroller of the General Services Administration, said the GSA refused to cancel a portion of the contracts but the companies still netted $231,810 above what they would have made had the copper been sold to the government.

Win Asylum In Embassy

16 Crash Fences In Bus To Flee Castro Regime

HAVANA (AP)—Sixteen refugees from Fidel Castro's regime won asylum in the Brazilian Embassy Monday after a city bus driver had smashed his vehicle through two metal fences surrounding the building.

Cuban guards posted around the embassy were too surprised to open fire.

The driver rammed the 35-foot bus through an iron fence at the end of the embassy garden, then tore through a strong steel fence 10 feet beyond.

The passengers, including several women and children, and the driver dashed into a building on the grounds where more than 200 refugees are lodged.

The noise of the crash brought scores of neighbors flocking to the scene.

Witnesses said some of the passengers carried packages and bundles, indicating the coup had been planned in advance. One woman appeared to be pregnant.

Only the bus conductor chose to return to Cuban jurisdiction.

"I am a revolutionary," he said as he left the embassy grounds.

An hour after the escape a tow truck hauled the big British-built bus out of the garden.

It was the second such incident in recent months. Last December another group of fugitives broke into the Ecuadorean Embassy compound in a heavy truck. Guards opened fire, killing three.

The granting of asylum to refugees who make it to a foreign embassy has long been traditional in Latin America.

Navy And Air Force To Release 20,000

WASHINGTON (AP) —Nearly 20,000 Navy and Air Force officers and enlisted men who were kept on active duty because of Berlin tensions will return to civilian life before July 1.

Their release, the two services said Monday, is contingent on no significant change in the world situation.

So nice to have helpful neighbors

Ohio's electric companies "share" electricity...

...It helps us serve you better!

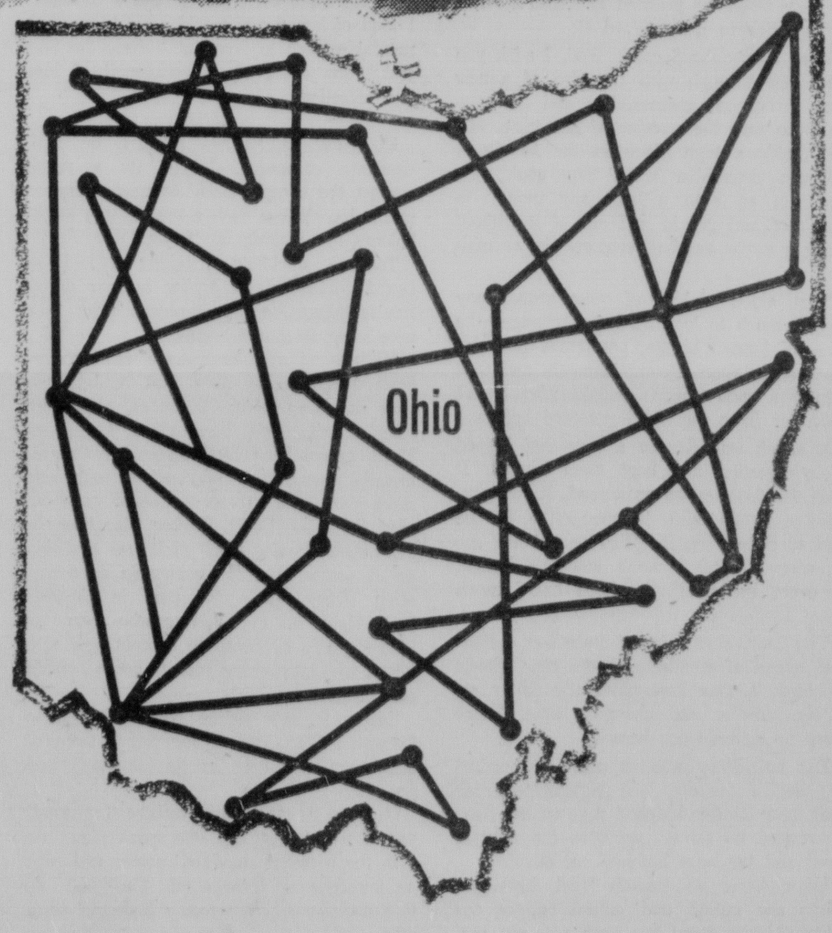

Interconnections tie together the electric companies serving Ohio. This large network of service lines, which includes interconnections with many other states, greatly increases the dependability of your electric service by making available electric capacity of more than one hundred companies. Sharing electricity in this fashion is another way we serve you better.

Sharing helps keep electricity low in price, too. One reason: There's no need to build large stand-by facilities.

Ohio is one of the key states in a national system of interconnected power companies. It's a fine example of what can be accomplished by investor-owned companies helping each other in a neighborly manner to serve you better!

So nice to have helpful neighbors

Ohio's electric companies "share" electricity...

...It helps us serve you better!

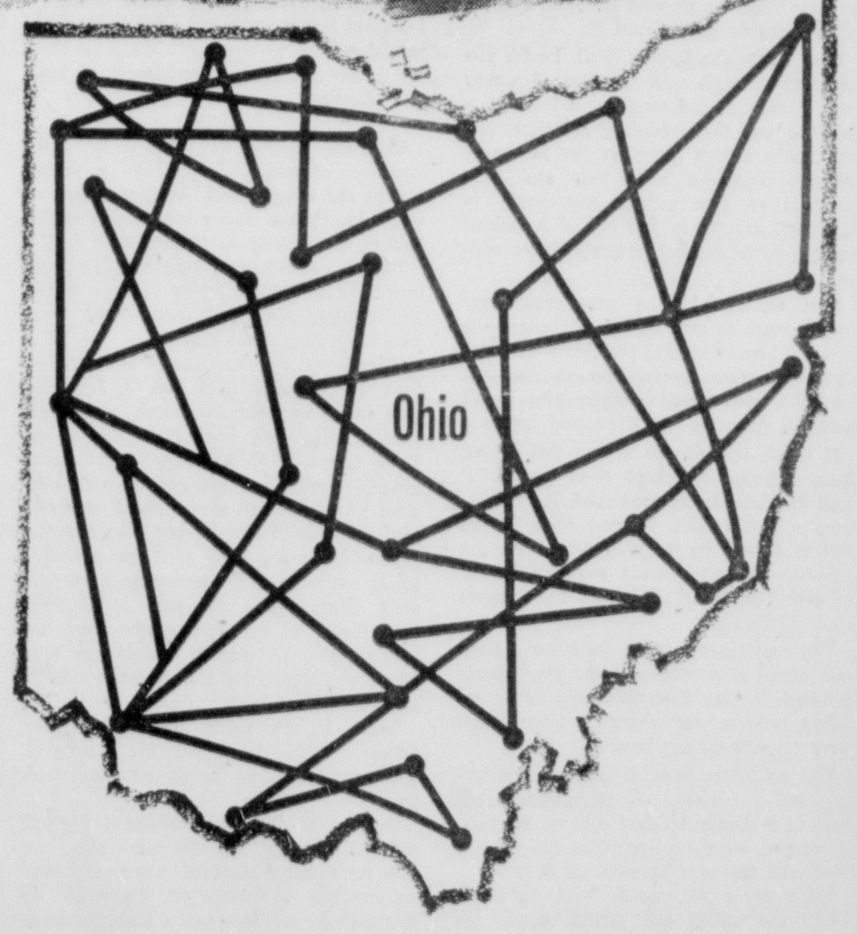

Interconnections tie together the electric companies serving Ohio. This large network of service lines, which includes interconnections with many other states, greatly increases the dependability of your electric service by making available electric capacity of more than one hundred companies. Sharing electricity in this fashion is another way we serve you better.

Sharing helps keep electricity low in price, too. One reason: There's no need to build large stand-by facilities.

Ohio is one of the key states in a national system of interconnected power companies. It's a fine example of what can be accomplished by investor-owned companies helping each other in a neighborly manner to serve you better!

Two Ways To Raise Money

The difference in viewpoint that distinguishes private enterprise most clearly from public enterprise is on raising money.

April 15 is the climax of the money-raising year for the federal government. According to the scare stories being pumped out by the Washington wind machine this is the last year income tax returns will be on a hit-or-miss basis as far as auditing is concerned.

In the future, electronic processing will figuratively hold taxpayers upside down and shake the fillings out of their teeth. Federal spenders will get billions more without even relying on their current legislative gimmick to collect taxes on dividends and bank deposits first, then challenge the owners of the money to get it back if they dispute the federal government's right to confiscate it.

This is the public enterprise way of raising money—pass a law and dispatch publicans to all corners of the land to make sure that everything claimed by Caesar is rendered unto Caesar. The customers is not always right. Quite the contrary. When the customer disputes his government about his taxes he is usually wrong, plus 6 per cent interest on what he was wrong about, plus a stretch in jail if he was wrong enough to be worth the punishment.

THE PRIVATE enterprise way of raising money is more complex.

Public confidence must be inspired and maintained.

Interest must be paid on all money—interest and dividends.

Taxes must be paid on the earnings of the money.

Every move made by the handlers of the money will be under official surveillance and a misstep may cause a bevy of public employes to utter dire threats about how they intend to invoke the full majesty of the law.

And if private money-raisers declare that they are going to raise a little more money than they have been raising because they need a little more, government money-raisers may howl like banshees and try to make it appear that a wrong is being committed.

They may hold hearings, to to court, invoke penalties, set up a special investigation and summon the miscreants to defend themselves for having committed unspecified crimes against society.

YET, WHEN April 15 comes and goes each year the nation meekly turns out its pockets for public money-raisers in Washington, to shake out what has not been turned over already to public money-raisers in the states and the bailiwicks.

It is a thought-provoking juxtaposition of events that makes the deadline for 1961 federal income taxes fall at the climax of the furor set off by the steel industry's desire to raise a little more money, too.

Everything depends on who's raising the money.

The Record Grows

The East Liverpool High School Key Club added to its outstanding record during the state convention of the clubs at Cleveland.

Robert Gilmore was elected governor of the convention and James Lang placed second in the oratorical contest. The delegation of 19 represented East Liverpool well.

The club and its sponsors can be proud of the work that is being done by a group of dedicated young men.

The Great Washington Itch

One thing certain about the ruckus between the Kennedy administration and the steel industry is that the fight will last more than two rounds.

In the first round, United States Steel Corp. knocked down the government by announcing a higher tonnage price and being followed in a price-increase policy by most of the other major steelmakers.

In the second round, United States Steel found itself on the floor unexpectedly when it was unable to sustain its announced price increase against a competitor's refusal to make a similar increase.

This had been the problem last year, when Big Steel was reluctant to risk a price boost in view of the fierce competition for orders in a dwindling market. When its increase was announced last week, the instantaneous reaction in the steel industry was to wonder whether it could hold a higher price line.

The answer was not long in coming.

BEFORE THE last echo of the Kennedy administration's angry charges of price-fixing had died away, U.S. Steel had been forced to abandon its price policy by industry competition.

It obviously is of considerable comfort for critics and opponents of free enterprise to think U.S. Steel backed off because it was scared of the Kennedy administration, but that is not easy to believe.

The battle that has been joined between free enterprise and victims of the great Washington itch to manage the economy is not going to end with one skirmish.

The victims of the itch may go to extreme lengths to make their point. They may make things miserable for the free enterprise system. They may turn the clock back to the first New Deal when another Democratic president parlayed an election into three re-elections by running against the economic system that supported his political extravagances.

The same kind of people who have been wanting to try a hand at managing the economy since Washington was over-run with the "happy hot dogs" will be champing at the bit. They think they have another chance to take the bit in their teeth and duplicate the riding off in all direcions that formerly gave so much pleasure to the Americans for Democratic Action coterie.

THIS IS NOW an old issue in the United States—whether an economy managed by the critics of free enterprise would be smarter and more beneficial to the public interest than an economy managed by private citizens subject to public regulation.

The question from the beginning of the Kennedy administration has been whether it would pick up where the New Dealers and Fair Dealers left off, or whether the New Frontier had new ideas.

The ruckus over steel prices tipped the New Frontier's hand. It is convinced that politicians know more about business than businessmen know.

The business community has been put on guard.

But let no one imagine the fight is over just because there has been a flurry of action.

It has barely begun. After all, it was only 10 years ago this month that another Democratic chief executive developed such an acute case of the great Washington itch that he seized the steel industry outright to make it knuckle under to his will and had to be pried loose by a 6-3 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court the following June.

Things aren't that bad yet in 1962, even though the itch seems to be coming back.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Lizzie ain't coming back. Henry Ford II announces abandonment of plan to turn out a small and cheaper car. It wouldn't have been very close to the price of the early Ford, but grandpa is sorry there will be no new model as planned and has knocked off a letter to Henry Ford II:

Dear Henry the Second: Well, I wish you had gone through with the idea of a new car, if only to memorialize and honor a gal who was the wonder of her time. She still holds a high place in the hearts of all who remember when they could buy and run an auto without any money to speak of and get in and out of it without being a circus acrobat, contortionist or midget.

That old Model T of your grandpappy wasn't much to look at, but it changed the lives of human beings, performed miracles in transportation accomplishments and took into the open spaces people who hadn't been far from the old homestead before.

It shook up folks in a way that helped their digestion and kept them rugged. It built fortitude on the open road. It strengthened a man's faith, because on a hill he had to depend on it. "You never take me anywhere" used to be a woman's lament in every home. It ain't been heard much since Lizzie's day.

You could always tell if there was a Ford just ahead of you because the rear wheels wobbled. A man kept physically fit by refilling radiator and changing tires. There were no superdooper luxuries.

The upholstery was so plain and enduring that if the dog had pups in the rear seat or a chicken hatched eggs on the floor it worried no owner, provided the puppies lived and the eggs hatched out okay.

Lizzie knew no smooth level highways. When she huffed and puffed out of the barnyard she knew her work was cut out. She had to be a combined mountain scaler, skin diver, bulldozer and work elephant. She cost as little as $400 and there were few repair bills.

She could always be repaired with a buttonhook, some corn plaster and a hammer. I kind of hoped you would have been sentimental enough to turn out "Lizzie the Second." She deserved a testimonial of love and affection.

EUROPE IS BEING SWEPT by anti-cigarette campaign. Maybe its a revolt against the commercials. American tobacco stocks have taken such a tumble that stockholders are picking up "butts."

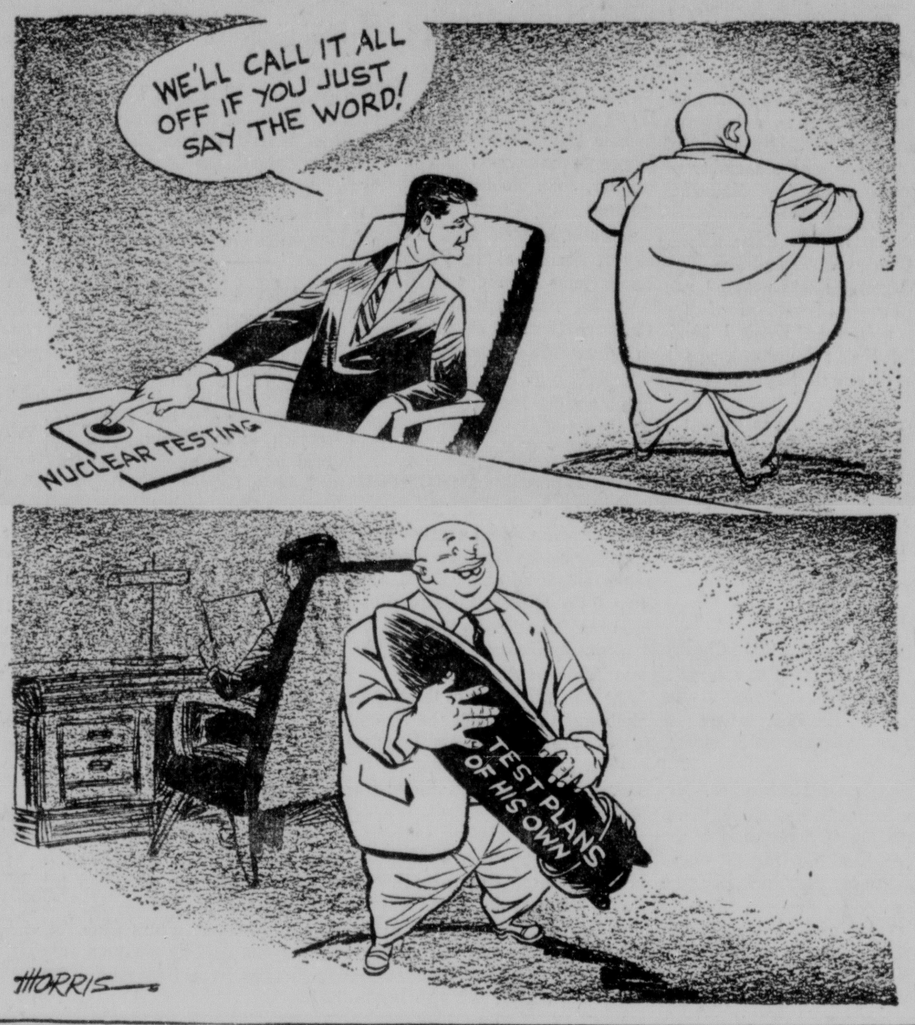

Tobacco stockholder, taking a look at board quotations, as broker in rear of office is telling him break means little: "It's what's up front that counts."

Millions of Americans are still groggy from recent news item that a Japanese who drew up plan for sneak attack on Pearl Harbor has been given Legion of Merit award by United States for "exceptionally meritorious service" to our side since war. That any service could wash out any phase of Pearl Harbor slaughter or get medal for any party to it was a shocker. It seems about as excusable as decorating Crazy Horse for part in Custer's Last Fight, all the plotters who were behind shooting of Abraham Lincoln, and also fellow who blueprinted plan to bomb London and Canterbury.

Castro is now selling human beings to highest bidders. He is for any system of government as long as its inhumane and ghastly.

Chrysler is displaying turbine (or small jet-motored) auto. Has one spark plug, one fifth the parts of standard motors and runs on kerosene or furnace oil. Wonderful, up to time somebody develops a high test kerosene.

Why He Isn't Talking

Unions Keep Eyes On The Teachers

By Victor Riesel

Behind the scenes of the great teachers' rebellion, the veteran labor leaders of other unions — the pros in the business—groaned. For a long time they had been counting on New York's 40,000 instructors to lead a big parade of millions of professional and educated groups and guilds into the labor movement. But the pros had not counted on the blackboard jungle's white collar workers yielding to red hots — the younger school teachers—and hitting the bricks as though they were hod carriers.

Victor Riesel

For some time now labor's veteran leaders — especially Walter Reuther — have been researching new fields from which to recruit new millions to bolster an old movement.

The labor men targeted in on the big city's teachers because they appeared to be the largest group of "workers" ready for proselytizing.

New York has the world's largest school system with one million pupils. If the labor men could succeed here, they could be well on the road to unionizing 1½ million other teachers across the nation.

IF THEY COULD accomplish this, they could use the teachers to attract engineers, scientists, office people, nurses, social workers — the gentle people — by the millions.

It was a start in the drive to put a union label on the space age—an age which seems to disdain the rough and tumble infighting of the old crafts.

For several years now there has been a careful nurturing of the New York teachers' leadership. One mighty mite, 5 foot 2 inch Charley Cogen, became the symbol of the embattled teachers. In Washington he conferred with the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department, (IUD).

There were discussions over at the big labor temple itself, the AFL-CIO headquarters across from the White House.

Reuther's IUD gave Cogen's United Federation of Teachers money and manpower. Three organizers and an apprentice, an Antioch college student, were dispatched to New York. The funds for the local ran from $5,000 to $10,000 dollars a month — and by now total about $100,000.

In New York Cogen met with the towering Paul Hall, head of the Seafareres, who also is the youngest AFL-CIO vice president.

STRONG SUPPORT and guidance came from Alex Rose—leader of the Liberal party and the national millinery and hat workers union — one of the land's shrewdest strategists.

Bolstering came from Dave Dubinsky, a powerhouse in New York, leader of the garment workers and elder statesman of the Liberal party. And always there was, and is, the electrical brotherhood's Harry Van Arsdale, creator of the 5-hour day.

There's influence in that combination, and manpower and money too. And they also threw in some advice.

Working with the teachers quite quietly was a pro of pros, little known to the "outside" world, Grendon Sexton. He's a labor man's labor man. Until recently he worked in Detroit as educational director and organizing coordinator for the United Auto Workers.

Now he is here as assistant to Walter Reuther for special projects — and this is a very special one.

If the 40,000 New York school teachers could be organized into a disciplined union, it could be the base for rejuvenation of its parent group, the American Federation of Teachers, (AFT) headquartered in Chicago.

The AFT has some 80,000 members. But not all are in locals which have convinced their town fathers to sign contracts. Of the 500 teachers' locals, only 12 have pacts with their communities. And these are in such towns as Cicero, Ill.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Pawtucket, R. I., and Bremerton, Wash.

THEY COULD HIT the national big time if the big time won in New York. Not only would the New Yorkers be able to show higher pay — but if they succeed, they will be bargaining on more than money matters.

They want a voice as a union in school policy. They want to participate as a union with the board of examiners in the way teachers' tests are prepared and conducted.

They want to participate in the selection of text books, in their preparation, in their coverage. They want to be in on decisions on the amount of money to go for such text books.

They want to participate in development of child guidance services, in the creation of community centers, improvement of the schools and they want teachers to have a strong say in the setting up of curricula.

All this would have terrific appeal not only to teachers but to millions of semi-professionals.

It could start the big white collar parade. That is if they haven't been frightened off by the howling, chanting, booing bands of teachers who hit the bricks in New York last week.

It's Starting—Now!

By Truman Twill

Those people who claim they can hardly wait because spring always seems to come late in this part of the country—what about them?

They're lying.

They don't really want to fool around with lawnmowers for the next five months, compelled to cut the grass whether they feel like it or not.

They aren't that eager to sprain their sacro-iliacs while doing foolish exercises with spades and shovels.

They do not look forward to developing blisters on their hands while wielding rakes.

If they never hoisted out another storm window or put in another screen they would make no complaint to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Householders.

As far as they're concerned, summer vacations are all right in their place, but the best place for them is in the middle of winter, when only the overprivileged are privileged to take vacations.

The privilege of moving outside to cook and eat food is not an inalienable Yankee Doodle right as far as they're concerned; they would rather stay in the house and live 1st class.

As far as playing golf is concerned, they eat and sleep better during the winter when it is off their minds.

The prospect of hot weather does not send them into rhapsodies. All it sends them into when it arrives is a cold shower and a lot of extra expense to try to be comfortable.

If the truth were to come out, they hate houseflies and mosquitoes. They dislike measuring worms, chiggers, oats bugs, June bugs and all the other pest and vermin that take hot weather seriously because it's their only chance to triumph over mankind.

Thunderstorms make their blood curdle.

So does potato salad.

They do not relish pulling weeds and raking leaves.

Sunburn and peeling skin do not stir them.

They do not ski on water, loll about in bikinis or fig leaves, fly kites, play croquet, chase butterflies, camp out, swim in the altogether, get excited about baseball, look into bird nests, pick wildflowers or worship the sun.

When they say they can't wait for spring to come to this part of the country, what they mean is they are fed up with winter and have decided anything else would be an improvement.

Step Toward Controls

By David Lawrence

Business Confidence May Be Shattered

There's only one way the American people now can be spared the economic distress which may eventually follow President Kennedy's tragic blunder of last week. A recession that could conceivably become a deep depression is as certain as day follows night if Mr. Kennedy continues to allow wage inceases and then terrorizes and coerces business when it seeks to cover its added costs with a rise in prices. Stability can be achieved now only by the enactment by Congress of a law to fix the standards of wage and price control and to entrust them to a commission to administer during the so-called emergency.

David Lawrence

This is an action that nobody likes but which Mr. Kennedy has made inevitable.

The American people will not long consent to leave in the hands of one man—even the president—the opportunity to raise or lower prices or wages without sanction of law. The talk of "victory" for the President now being heard in Capitol corridors from the leaders in a rubber-stamp Congress will be short-lived if the big problem of meeting labor costs remains much longer in the confused situation it is in today.

For some companies it means a cut in profits and in tax payments to the government, as well as the passing up of dividends this year. Probably about 100,000 steelworkers will be idle in the next few months.

How many businessmen, moreover, who sell across the country will dare to raise prices if they live in fear of government reprisals?

The President has been brainwashed by his advisers and now has led the public into believing that price increases are sinful or unpatriotic but that wage increases usually are justified.

Mr. Kennedy is a man who follows the advice given him that seems plausible even if it is one-sided. In the conference last Tuesday night which he held at the White House with Roger Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp., the newspapers now report that the secretary of labor, Goldberg, did much of the talking. Mr. Goldberg was formerly general counsel of the national Steelworkers Union, and he read the riot act to Mr. Blough.

The president, of course, would never have ventured to appoint the general counsel of the U.S. Steel Corp. or of any other steel company to be secretary of other side of labor questions. commerce to advise him on the What becomes of the "conflict of interest" concept when the same man who helped negotiate for the steelworkers the very contract which prompted the decision last week to increase prices sits at the side of the President and advises him to take reprisals against the steel industry?

THE DEMORALIZATION of businessmen today is extensive. How can they do any long-range planning now?

Politically the President's tactics last week may boomerang. Wage increases in other industries will have hard sledding and the unions will be unhappy. Also, if the profit squeeze continues and more persons are thrown out of work, the current recession will not soon be ended and could get worse. The Democrats could, therefore, lose many seats in Congress next November.

The talk of prosecuting the steel companies is largely poppycock. If the steel companies violated the antitrust laws by following each other successively with announcements on price increases, didn't they, by the same theory, violate the antitrust laws by withdrawing their price rise announcements one by one? Isn't price holding then a form of price fixing, too?

There was no collusion in either case but the government says concerted action amounts to the same thing. Yet labor unions fix wage costs in a whole industry by concerted action.

Labor, however, contributed millions of dollars to help elect Mr. Kennedy and the Democratic party. So the antitrust laws will not soon be amended to include national unions.

THE FATEFUL EVENTS of the last few days are best summed up by The Associated Press in a dispatch from Washington on Saturday which said:

"The arsenal of weapons the President wheeled into his all-out economic foray against the big business leaders was an awesome display of coldly determined political and economic power seldom if ever before employed by the government. Every major governmental department got into the act."

Is this democracy, or is it the forerunner of a quasi-fascist system?

It is a government under a written constitution or is it a government by usurpation of legislative authority?

Economic facts — unlike political maneuvers—do not depend on artificial "public relations." Business depends on confidence in the fairness of a government that operates under laws and rules which can be understood and are applied equally to all sides.

Without such confidence there cannot be profits or prosperity of increased jobs.

Without prosperity, treasury receipts from corporate taxes decline and the government's deficits pile up, thus pushing downward still further the purchasing power of the dollar. Loss of public confidence then leads to a psychology of inflation which breeds economic disaster.

Letters To The Editor

In reply to Mr. Kittridge:

The Democratic Boosters make no claim to large numbers of members. We issue invitations to become a member only to bonafide Democrats of good characer and reputation. This system tends to hold down the quantity, but we are quite happy with the quality.

Ordinarily, we are not concerned with County politics, but in the instance of our state central committeeman, and the incumbent first-term governor, our policy committee was of the opinion that the present county chairman was in violation of the ethics of his office and was mis-using the power and authority entrusted to him by promoting himself for state central committeeman, and Mike DiSalle's opponent for the office of governor. As stated before, in the resolution adopted, we believe too much "power politics" are being exerted in behalf of the present county chairman, who, already holds more political jobs than is consistant with the word democracy, so we invited John Taylor to be our guest.

Mr. Taylor's background as a State Senator, as a member of the "Little Hoover Commission" and as a member of the state policy committee, as well as being a previous nominee for lieutenant governor, coupled with his political lore, tips the scales emphatically in his favor and we are satisfied we have endorsed the better man.

It has been suggested the recent spokesman ascertain whether or not he is legally a member of any County Committee before he undertakes to formulate policy. Here in America, we are allowed free political action, and should be allowed to do so without being called splinter groups, insurgents, etc. A departure from these practices might help him, next time he ventures into the political arena. He can be forgiven, however, for most people can recall the biblical quotation, "The voice is the voice of Jacob; but the hands are the hands of Esau."

Two Ways To Raise Money

The difference in viewpoint that distinguishes private enterprise most clearly from public enterprise is on raising money.

April 15 is the climax of the money-raising year for the federal government. According to the scare stories being pumped out by the Washington wind machine this is the last year income tax returns will be on a hit-or-miss basis as far as auditing is concerned.

In the future, electronic processing will figuratively hold taxpayers upside down and shake the fillings out of their teeth. Federal spenders will get billions more without even relying on their current legislative gimmick to collect taxes on dividends and bank deposits first, then challenge the owners of the money to get it back if they dispute the federal government's right to confiscate it.

This is the public enterprise way of raising money—pass a law and dispatch publicans to all corners of the land to make sure that everything claimed by Caesar is rendered unto Caesar. The customers is not always right. Quite the contrary. When the customer disputes his government about his taxes he is usually wrong, plus 6 per cent interest on what he was wrong about, plus a stretch in jail if he was wrong enough to be worth the punishment.

THE PRIVATE enterprise way of raising money is more complex.

Public confidence must be inspired and maintained.

Interest must be paid on all money—interest and dividends.

Taxes must be paid on the earnings of the money.

Every move made by the handlers of the money will be under official surveillance and a misstep may cause a bevy of public employes to utter dire threats about how they intend to invoke the full majesty of the law.

And if private money-raisers declare that they are going to raise a little more money than they have been raising because they need a little more, government money-raisers may howl like banshees and try to make it appear that a wrong is being committed.

They may hold hearings, to to court, invoke penalties, set up a special investigation and summon the miscreants to defend themselves for having committed unspecified crimes against society.

YET, WHEN April 15 comes and goes each year the nation meekly turns out its pockets for public money-raisers in Washington, to shake out what has not been turned over already to public money-raisers in the states and the bailiwicks.

It is a thought-provoking juxtaposition of events that makes the deadline for 1961 federal income taxes fall at the climax of the furor set off by the steel industry's desire to raise a little more money, too.

Everything depends on who's raising the money.

The Record Grows

The East Liverpool High School Key Club added to its outstanding record during the state convention of the clubs at Cleveland.

Robert Gilmore was elected governor of the convention and James Lang placed second in the oratorical contest. The delegation of 19 represented East Liverpool well.

The club and its sponsors can be proud of the work that is being done by a group of dedicated young men.

The Great Washington Itch

One thing certain about the ruckus between the Kennedy administration and the steel industry is that the fight will last more than two rounds.

In the first round, United States Steel Corp. knocked down the government by announcing a higher tonnage price and being followed in a price-increase policy by most of the other major steelmakers.

In the second round, United States Steel found itself on the floor unexpectedly when it was unable to sustain its announced price increase against a competitor's refusal to make a similar increase.

This had been the problem last year, when Big Steel was reluctant to risk a price boost in view of the fierce competition for orders in a dwindling market. When its increase was announced last week, the instantaneous reaction in the steel industry was to wonder whether it could hold a higher price line.

The answer was not long in coming.

BEFORE THE last echo of the Kennedy administration's angry charges of price-fixing had died away, U.S. Steel had been forced to abandon its price policy by industry competition.

It obviously is of considerable comfort for critics and opponents of free enterprise to think U.S. Steel backed off because it was scared of the Kennedy administration, but that is not easy to believe.

The battle that has been joined between free enterprise and victims of the great Washington itch to manage the economy is not going to end with one skirmish.

The victims of the itch may go to extreme lengths to make their point. They may make things miserable for the free enterprise system. They may turn the clock back to the first New Deal when another Democratic president parlayed an election into three re-elections by running against the economic system that supported his political extravagances.

The same kind of people who have been wanting to try a hand at managing the economy since Washington was over-run with the "happy hot dogs" will be champing at the bit. They think they have another chance to take the bit in their teeth and duplicate the riding off in all direcions that formerly gave so much pleasure to the Americans for Democratic Action coterie.

THIS IS NOW an old issue in the United States—whether an economy managed by the critics of free enterprise would be smarter and more beneficial to the public interest than an economy managed by private citizens subject to public regulation.

The question from the beginning of the Kennedy administration has been whether it would pick up where the New Dealers and Fair Dealers left off, or whether the New Frontier had new ideas.

The ruckus over steel prices tipped the New Frontier's hand. It is convinced that politicians know more about business than businessmen know.

The business community has been put on guard.

But let no one imagine the fight is over just because there has been a flurry of action.

It has barely begun. After all, it was only 10 years ago this month that another Democratic chief executive developed such an acute case of the great Washington itch that he seized the steel industry outright to make it knuckle under to his will and had to be pried loose by a 6-3 decision of the U.S. Supreme Court the following June.

Things aren't that bad yet in 1962, even though the itch seems to be coming back.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Lizzie ain't coming back. Henry Ford II announces abandonment of plan to turn out a small and cheaper car. It wouldn't have been very close to the price of the early Ford, but grandpa is sorry there will be no new model as planned and has knocked off a letter to Henry Ford II:

Dear Henry the Second: Well, I wish you had gone through with the idea of a new car, if only to memorialize and honor a gal who was the wonder of her time. She still holds a high place in the hearts of all who remember when they could buy and run an auto without any money to speak of and get in and out of it without being a circus acrobat, contortionist or midget.

That old Model T of your grandpappy wasn't much to look at, but it changed the lives of human beings, performed miracles in transportation accomplishments and took into the open spaces people who hadn't been far from the old homestead before.

It shook up folks in a way that helped their digestion and kept them rugged. It built fortitude on the open road. It strengthened a man's faith, because on a hill he had to depend on it. "You never take me anywhere" used to be a woman's lament in every home. It ain't been heard much since Lizzie's day.

You could always tell if there was a Ford just ahead of you because the rear wheels wobbled. A man kept physically fit by refilling radiator and changing tires. There were no superdooper luxuries.

The upholstery was so plain and enduring that if the dog had pups in the rear seat or a chicken hatched eggs on the floor it worried no owner, provided the puppies lived and the eggs hatched out okay.

Lizzie knew no smooth level highways. When she huffed and puffed out of the barnyard she knew her work was cut out. She had to be a combined mountain scaler, skin diver, bulldozer and work elephant. She cost as little as $400 and there were few repair bills.

She could always be repaired with a buttonhook, some corn plaster and a hammer. I kind of hoped you would have been sentimental enough to turn out "Lizzie the Second." She deserved a testimonial of love and affection.

EUROPE IS BEING SWEPT by anti-cigarette campaign. Maybe its a revolt against the commercials. American tobacco stocks have taken such a tumble that stockholders are picking up "butts."

Tobacco stockholder, taking a look at board quotations, as broker in rear of office is telling him break means little: "It's what's up front that counts."

Millions of Americans are still groggy from recent news item that a Japanese who drew up plan for sneak attack on Pearl Harbor has been given Legion of Merit award by United States for "exceptionally meritorious service" to our side since war. That any service could wash out any phase of Pearl Harbor slaughter or get medal for any party to it was a shocker. It seems about as excusable as decorating Crazy Horse for part in Custer's Last Fight, all the plotters who were behind shooting of Abraham Lincoln, and also fellow who blueprinted plan to bomb London and Canterbury.

Castro is now selling human beings to highest bidders. He is for any system of government as long as its inhumane and ghastly.

Chrysler is displaying turbine (or small jet-motored) auto. Has one spark plug, one fifth the parts of standard motors and runs on kerosene or furnace oil. Wonderful, up to time somebody develops a high test kerosene.

Why He Isn't Talking

Unions Keep Eyes On The Teachers

By Victor Riesel

Behind the scenes of the great teachers' rebellion, the veteran labor leaders of other unions — the pros in the business—groaned. For a long time they had been counting on New York's 40,000 instructors to lead a big parade of millions of professional and educated groups and guilds into the labor movement. But the pros had not counted on the blackboard jungle's white collar workers yielding to red hots — the younger school teachers—and hitting the bricks as though they were hod carriers.

Victor Riesel

For some time now labor's veteran leaders — especially Walter Reuther — have been researching new fields from which to recruit new millions to bolster an old movement.

The labor men targeted in on the big city's teachers because they appeared to be the largest group of "workers" ready for proselytizing.

New York has the world's largest school system with one million pupils. If the labor men could succeed here, they could be well on the road to unionizing 1½ million other teachers across the nation.

IF THEY COULD accomplish this, they could use the teachers to attract engineers, scientists, office people, nurses, social workers — the gentle people — by the millions.

It was a start in the drive to put a union label on the space age—an age which seems to disdain the rough and tumble infighting of the old crafts.

For several years now there has been a careful nurturing of the New York teachers' leadership. One mighty mite, 5 foot 2 inch Charley Cogen, became the symbol of the embattled teachers. In Washington he conferred with the AFL-CIO Industrial Union Department, (IUD).

There were discussions over at the big labor temple itself, the AFL-CIO headquarters across from the White House.

Reuther's IUD gave Cogen's United Federation of Teachers money and manpower. Three organizers and an apprentice, an Antioch college student, were dispatched to New York. The funds for the local ran from $5,000 to $10,000 dollars a month — and by now total about $100,000.

In New York Cogen met with the towering Paul Hall, head of the Seafareres, who also is the youngest AFL-CIO vice president.

STRONG SUPPORT and guidance came from Alex Rose—leader of the Liberal party and the national millinery and hat workers union — one of the land's shrewdest strategists.

Bolstering came from Dave Dubinsky, a powerhouse in New York, leader of the garment workers and elder statesman of the Liberal party. And always there was, and is, the electrical brotherhood's Harry Van Arsdale, creator of the 5-hour day.

There's influence in that combination, and manpower and money too. And they also threw in some advice.

Working with the teachers quite quietly was a pro of pros, little known to the "outside" world, Grendon Sexton. He's a labor man's labor man. Until recently he worked in Detroit as educational director and organizing coordinator for the United Auto Workers.

Now he is here as assistant to Walter Reuther for special projects — and this is a very special one.

If the 40,000 New York school teachers could be organized into a disciplined union, it could be the base for rejuvenation of its parent group, the American Federation of Teachers, (AFT) headquartered in Chicago.

The AFT has some 80,000 members. But not all are in locals which have convinced their town fathers to sign contracts. Of the 500 teachers' locals, only 12 have pacts with their communities. And these are in such towns as Cicero, Ill.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Pawtucket, R. I., and Bremerton, Wash.

THEY COULD HIT the national big time if the big time won in New York. Not only would the New Yorkers be able to show higher pay — but if they succeed, they will be bargaining on more than money matters.

They want a voice as a union in school policy. They want to participate as a union with the board of examiners in the way teachers' tests are prepared and conducted.

They want to participate in the selection of text books, in their preparation, in their coverage. They want to be in on decisions on the amount of money to go for such text books.

They want to participate in development of child guidance services, in the creation of community centers, improvement of the schools and they want teachers to have a strong say in the setting up of curricula.

All this would have terrific appeal not only to teachers but to millions of semi-professionals.

It could start the big white collar parade. That is if they haven't been frightened off by the howling, chanting, booing bands of teachers who hit the bricks in New York last week.

It's Starting—Now!

By Truman Twill

Those people who claim they can hardly wait because spring always seems to come late in this part of the country—what about them?

They're lying.

They don't really want to fool around with lawnmowers for the next five months, compelled to cut the grass whether they feel like it or not.

They aren't that eager to sprain their sacro-iliacs while doing foolish exercises with spades and shovels.

They do not look forward to developing blisters on their hands while wielding rakes.

If they never hoisted out another storm window or put in another screen they would make no complaint to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Householders.

As far as they're concerned, summer vacations are all right in their place, but the best place for them is in the middle of winter, when only the overprivileged are privileged to take vacations.

The privilege of moving outside to cook and eat food is not an inalienable Yankee Doodle right as far as they're concerned; they would rather stay in the house and live 1st class.

As far as playing golf is concerned, they eat and sleep better during the winter when it is off their minds.

The prospect of hot weather does not send them into rhapsodies. All it sends them into when it arrives is a cold shower and a lot of extra expense to try to be comfortable.

If the truth were to come out, they hate houseflies and mosquitoes. They dislike measuring worms, chiggers, oats bugs, June bugs and all the other pest and vermin that take hot weather seriously because it's their only chance to triumph over mankind.

Thunderstorms make their blood curdle.

So does potato salad.

They do not relish pulling weeds and raking leaves.

Sunburn and peeling skin do not stir them.

They do not ski on water, loll about in bikinis or fig leaves, fly kites, play croquet, chase butterflies, camp out, swim in the altogether, get excited about baseball, look into bird nests, pick wildflowers or worship the sun.

When they say they can't wait for spring to come to this part of the country, what they mean is they are fed up with winter and have decided anything else would be an improvement.

Step Toward Controls

By David Lawrence

Business Confidence May Be Shattered

There's only one way the American people now can be spared the economic distress which may eventually follow President Kennedy's tragic blunder of last week. A recession that could conceivably become a deep depression is as certain as day follows night if Mr. Kennedy continues to allow wage inceases and then terrorizes and coerces business when it seeks to cover its added costs with a rise in prices. Stability can be achieved now only by the enactment by Congress of a law to fix the standards of wage and price control and to entrust them to a commission to administer during the so-called emergency.

David Lawrence

This is an action that nobody likes but which Mr. Kennedy has made inevitable.

The American people will not long consent to leave in the hands of one man—even the president—the opportunity to raise or lower prices or wages without sanction of law. The talk of "victory" for the President now being heard in Capitol corridors from the leaders in a rubber-stamp Congress will be short-lived if the big problem of meeting labor costs remains much longer in the confused situation it is in today.

For some companies it means a cut in profits and in tax payments to the government, as well as the passing up of dividends this year. Probably about 100,000 steelworkers will be idle in the next few months.

How many businessmen, moreover, who sell across the country will dare to raise prices if they live in fear of government reprisals?

The President has been brainwashed by his advisers and now has led the public into believing that price increases are sinful or unpatriotic but that wage increases usually are justified.

Mr. Kennedy is a man who follows the advice given him that seems plausible even if it is one-sided. In the conference last Tuesday night which he held at the White House with Roger Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp., the newspapers now report that the secretary of labor, Goldberg, did much of the talking. Mr. Goldberg was formerly general counsel of the national Steelworkers Union, and he read the riot act to Mr. Blough.

The president, of course, would never have ventured to appoint the general counsel of the U.S. Steel Corp. or of any other steel company to be secretary of other side of labor questions. commerce to advise him on the What becomes of the "conflict of interest" concept when the same man who helped negotiate for the steelworkers the very contract which prompted the decision last week to increase prices sits at the side of the President and advises him to take reprisals against the steel industry?

THE DEMORALIZATION of businessmen today is extensive. How can they do any long-range planning now?

Politically the President's tactics last week may boomerang. Wage increases in other industries will have hard sledding and the unions will be unhappy. Also, if the profit squeeze continues and more persons are thrown out of work, the current recession will not soon be ended and could get worse. The Democrats could, therefore, lose many seats in Congress next November.

The talk of prosecuting the steel companies is largely poppycock. If the steel companies violated the antitrust laws by following each other successively with announcements on price increases, didn't they, by the same theory, violate the antitrust laws by withdrawing their price rise announcements one by one? Isn't price holding then a form of price fixing, too?

There was no collusion in either case but the government says concerted action amounts to the same thing. Yet labor unions fix wage costs in a whole industry by concerted action.

Labor, however, contributed millions of dollars to help elect Mr. Kennedy and the Democratic party. So the antitrust laws will not soon be amended to include national unions.

THE FATEFUL EVENTS of the last few days are best summed up by The Associated Press in a dispatch from Washington on Saturday which said:

"The arsenal of weapons the President wheeled into his all-out economic foray against the big business leaders was an awesome display of coldly determined political and economic power seldom if ever before employed by the government. Every major governmental department got into the act."

Is this democracy, or is it the forerunner of a quasi-fascist system?

It is a government under a written constitution or is it a government by usurpation of legislative authority?

Economic facts — unlike political maneuvers—do not depend on artificial "public relations." Business depends on confidence in the fairness of a government that operates under laws and rules which can be understood and are applied equally to all sides.

Without such confidence there cannot be profits or prosperity of increased jobs.

Without prosperity, treasury receipts from corporate taxes decline and the government's deficits pile up, thus pushing downward still further the purchasing power of the dollar. Loss of public confidence then leads to a psychology of inflation which breeds economic disaster.

Letters To The Editor

In reply to Mr. Kittridge:

The Democratic Boosters make no claim to large numbers of members. We issue invitations to become a member only to bonafide Democrats of good characer and reputation. This system tends to hold down the quantity, but we are quite happy with the quality.

Ordinarily, we are not concerned with County politics, but in the instance of our state central committeeman, and the incumbent first-term governor, our policy committee was of the opinion that the present county chairman was in violation of the ethics of his office and was mis-using the power and authority entrusted to him by promoting himself for state central committeeman, and Mike DiSalle's opponent for the office of governor. As stated before, in the resolution adopted, we believe too much "power politics" are being exerted in behalf of the present county chairman, who, already holds more political jobs than is consistant with the word democracy, so we invited John Taylor to be our guest.

Mr. Taylor's background as a State Senator, as a member of the "Little Hoover Commission" and as a member of the state policy committee, as well as being a previous nominee for lieutenant governor, coupled with his political lore, tips the scales emphatically in his favor and we are satisfied we have endorsed the better man.

It has been suggested the recent spokesman ascertain whether or not he is legally a member of any County Committee before he undertakes to formulate policy. Here in America, we are allowed free political action, and should be allowed to do so without being called splinter groups, insurgents, etc. A departure from these practices might help him, next time he ventures into the political arena. He can be forgiven, however, for most people can recall the biblical quotation, "The voice is the voice of Jacob; but the hands are the hands of Esau."

Woman, Almost 102, Gets Hospitalization Plan

By JOHN SAUSVILLE JR.
Lebanon (N.H.) Valley News

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt. (AP) — Insurance history was made today when a woman 41 days shy of her 102nd birthday was issued a hospitalization policy by the Vermont Accident Insurance Co.

Ellen Elizabeth Perry, a spry lass with a sparkling sense of humor who chopped her own firewood at the age of 98, is anticipating, with glee, her 102nd birthday May 28, "so we can have a nice party. I like parties."

Mrs. Perry is believed to be the oldest holder of a hospitalization policy in North America, says I. J. Davis, agent for the insurance company. Davis said "we had no grounds to refuse her. She apparently has no medical history and we consider her an excellent risk."

Mrs. Perry verified the health factor. "I never had a sick day in my life," she beamed.

Mrs. Perry has outlived her brother, her six sisters and her husband, Frederick, who died at 95. One sister lived to be 101.

She was born in North Ely, Quebec, in 1860. Her parents, Charles and Margaret Smith, were natives of Ireland and American citizens. They returned to the United States about 1880.

Mrs. Perry's most vivid memories are of her childhood when she had to walk two miles through dense forest to school.

"The forest was full of wolves and bears," she said.

"We had a small dog named Coaly, because he was so black, who walked to school with us each day and scared away the bears and wolves with his barking. We met a bear almost every day."

Mrs. Perry walks without assistance and requires glasses only to read. Her hearing is failing a bit but her wit is keen.

GI Certain He'll Be Cleared After Criticizing President

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — An Army reservist facing a court-martial because he criticized his commander-in-chief, President Kennedy, is confident he will be exonerated.

"I can see nothing wrong with a man expressing an honest opinion to a senator," Pfc. Larry D. Chidester, 24, of Salt Lake City, said Monday.

"I've always felt a man has a right to voice his opinion on his country. That is what this country runs on."

Chidester, an automotive mechanic with the 115th Ordnance Co., has been charged by the Army with violating the uniform code of military justice by soliciting and encouraging men in his unit to sign a letter critical of the President. The court-martial tentatively is set for April 23.

The letter, signed by 75 members of the 100-man company, was sent to Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Bennett issued a statement in Washington defending what he called the rights of Guardsmen to gripe and write letters to members of Congress.

In one portion of the letter, Chidester asked if Kennedy "liked expenditures of great proportions which he allocates freely or does he think the jobs left open by our callup will re-elect him on the basis of low unemployment."

Bennett said the strong language of the letter should be viewed in the light of circumstances. He said it was written before the August release date for the Guardsmen had been announced.

They were arrested by the Wintersville State Highway Patrol on a four-lane divided section of Route 7 just north of Steubenville.

Dale Smith, 32, of Stratton was fined $5 and costs for speeding while John E. Sembar, 20, of Toronto was fined $20 and costs for passing without the assured clear distance. They also were arrested by the Wintersville patrol.

Lebanon (N.H.) Valley News

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt. (AP) — Insurance history was made today when a woman 41 days shy of her 102nd birthday was issued a hospitalization policy by the Vermont Accident Insurance Co.

Ellen Elizabeth Perry, a spry lass with a sparkling sense of humor who chopped her own firewood at the age of 98, is anticipating, with glee, her 102nd birthday May 28, "so we can have a nice party. I like parties."

Mrs. Perry is believed to be the oldest holder of a hospitalization policy in North America, says I. J. Davis, agent for the insurance company. Davis said "we had no grounds to refuse her. She apparently has no medical history and we consider her an excellent risk."

Mrs. Perry verified the health factor. "I never had a sick day in my life," she beamed.

Mrs. Perry has outlived her brother, her six sisters and her husband, Frederick, who died at 95. One sister lived to be 101.

She was born in North Ely, Quebec, in 1860. Her parents, Charles and Margaret Smith, were natives of Ireland and American citizens. They returned to the United States about 1880.

Mrs. Perry's most vivid memories are of her childhood when she had to walk two miles through dense forest to school.

"The forest was full of wolves and bears," she said.

"We had a small dog named Coaly, because he was so black, who walked to school with us each day and scared away the bears and wolves with his barking. We met a bear almost every day."

Mrs. Perry walks without assistance and requires glasses only to read. Her hearing is failing a bit but her wit is keen.

GI Certain He'll Be Cleared After Criticizing President

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — An Army reservist facing a court-martial because he criticized his commander-in-chief, President Kennedy, is confident he will be exonerated.

"I can see nothing wrong with a man expressing an honest opinion to a senator," Pfc. Larry D. Chidester, 24, of Salt Lake City, said Monday.

"I've always felt a man has a right to voice his opinion on his country. That is what this country runs on."

Chidester, an automotive mechanic with the 115th Ordnance Co., has been charged by the Army with violating the uniform code of military justice by soliciting and encouraging men in his unit to sign a letter critical of the President. The court-martial tentatively is set for April 23.

The letter, signed by 75 members of the 100-man company, was sent to Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Bennett issued a statement in Washington defending what he called the rights of Guardsmen to gripe and write letters to members of Congress.

In one portion of the letter, Chidester asked if Kennedy "liked expenditures of great proportions which he allocates freely or does he think the jobs left open by our callup will re-elect him on the basis of low unemployment."

Bennett said the strong language of the letter should be viewed in the light of circumstances. He said it was written before the August release date for the Guardsmen had been announced.

President Of Church Goes To Skunk's Aid

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — There's no doubting Mrs. Rachel Kline's story, for she's president of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. She says it happened this way:

Her brother - in - law had been gathering dried leaves to use as mulch. He came hurrying into the house — where she was visiting— to expalin that he had found two young skunks under the leaves and one had its head caught in a small olive or pickle jar. Unwilling to take a chance, he quickly retreated.

Later that evening, says Mrs. Kline, they were watching television when they heard a peculiar noise at the front door. They opened the door, thinking it was the family cat. But there was the skunk, its head still in the bottle, knocking it against the door.

Taking the skunk by the bottle —but gently—Mrs. Kline's brother-in-law placed the bottle between the door and the door jamb. The startled skunk backed up, its head came out of the bottle, and it departed the scene.

Either out of fright or gratitude, it failed to leave a calling card.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a good dry-cleaning fluid?

A. A dry-cleaning fluid that combines the efficient grease-dissolving powers of naphtha and carbon tetrachloride in proportions that are inflammable can be made as follows: Mix together three gallons of carbon tetrachloride, 1¾ gallon of deodorized cleaner's naphtha, 24 fluid ounces of benzol, and two ounces of chloroform.

Q. How can I apply enamel to brass so that it will stick?

A. Before attempting to apply the enamel, prepare the brass carefully. Wash thoroughly to apply the enamel, prepare the brass carefully. Wash thoroughly with any household cleaner that doesn't contain soap, then wipe down with denatured alcohol. This will insure your enamel's sticking.

Q. How can I easily loosen a glass topper that has become stuck in a bottle?

A. Put a few drops of glycerin around the stopper and let stand for a few hours. The glycerin works down around the stopper and loosens it for easy removal.

Q. How can I remove candle grease that has spattered over black suede shoes?

A. Take a piece of brown wrapping paper and cover the grease with this. Then hold a warm iron over the paper, and the spot will soon be absorbed.

Q. How can I remove scorch stains from fabrics?

A. Scorch stains are, of course, burnt places, and sometimes they are impossible to remove. Brushing scorched spots on woolens lightly with emery cloth may improve their appearance.

Q. What can I do about some of the wood siding on my house which has split?

A. Often it is not necessary to replace this. Try spreding some waterproof glue on the split edges, and clamping these together firmly.

Q. How can I save the paint that invariably collects in the indented rim of a paint can, flows down the outside of the can, and is wasted?

A. Punch a couple of nail holes in the bottom of this indented rim, and the paint will run back into the can again.

Beaver Will Light Park's Facilities

BEAVER — Beaver County commissioners today agreed to proceed with plans for lighting Economy Park near Ambridge.

There will be lights for the shelters and streets of the park. The county operates two parks, Economy and Brady's Run Park near Beaver Falls.

Commissioners decided to contact the governor's office and the Department of Public Instruction to have the practical nurse training course continued at Ambridge High School.

Ambridge decided not to have the classes after 10 years since the state has demanded tenure for the teachers.

Students for the course come from all over the county and out of state. The county is interested since most of the graduates are employed by the county hospital and the four public hospitals in the county.

President Of Church Goes To Skunk's Aid

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — There's no doubting Mrs. Rachel Kline's story, for she's president of the Seventh Day Adventist Church. She says it happened this way:

Her brother - in - law had been gathering dried leaves to use as mulch. He came hurrying into the house — where she was visiting— to expalin that he had found two young skunks under the leaves and one had its head caught in a small olive or pickle jar. Unwilling to take a chance, he quickly retreated.

Later that evening, says Mrs. Kline, they were watching television when they heard a peculiar noise at the front door. They opened the door, thinking it was the family cat. But there was the skunk, its head still in the bottle, knocking it against the door.

Taking the skunk by the bottle —but gently—Mrs. Kline's brother-in-law placed the bottle between the door and the door jamb. The startled skunk backed up, its head came out of the bottle, and it departed the scene.

Either out of fright or gratitude, it failed to leave a calling card.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a good dry-cleaning fluid?

A. A dry-cleaning fluid that combines the efficient grease-dissolving powers of naphtha and carbon tetrachloride in proportions that are inflammable can be made as follows: Mix together three gallons of carbon tetrachloride, 1¾ gallon of deodorized cleaner's naphtha, 24 fluid ounces of benzol, and two ounces of chloroform.

Q. How can I apply enamel to brass so that it will stick?

A. Before attempting to apply the enamel, prepare the brass carefully. Wash thoroughly to apply the enamel, prepare the brass carefully. Wash thoroughly with any household cleaner that doesn't contain soap, then wipe down with denatured alcohol. This will insure your enamel's sticking.

Q. How can I easily loosen a glass topper that has become stuck in a bottle?

A. Put a few drops of glycerin around the stopper and let stand for a few hours. The glycerin works down around the stopper and loosens it for easy removal.

Q. How can I remove candle grease that has spattered over black suede shoes?

A. Take a piece of brown wrapping paper and cover the grease with this. Then hold a warm iron over the paper, and the spot will soon be absorbed.

Q. How can I remove scorch stains from fabrics?

A. Scorch stains are, of course, burnt places, and sometimes they are impossible to remove. Brushing scorched spots on woolens lightly with emery cloth may improve their appearance.

Q. What can I do about some of the wood siding on my house which has split?

A. Often it is not necessary to replace this. Try spreding some waterproof glue on the split edges, and clamping these together firmly.

Q. How can I save the paint that invariably collects in the indented rim of a paint can, flows down the outside of the can, and is wasted?

A. Punch a couple of nail holes in the bottom of this indented rim, and the paint will run back into the can again.

Power Plant Bond Issue Of $600,000 Set

EAST PALESTINE — Council Monday night approved plans for a $600,000 mortgage bond issue for the second phase of a large-scale improvement project at the city power plant after it was reported $150,000 could be saved on the project if undertaken immediately.

Council authorized action on the bond issue as soon as an engineering report on the work filed 18 months ago can be updated.

The improvement will include a 75,000-kilowatt turbine generator to provide needed increases in electrical supply for the town.

The first phase of the improvement included a new high-line, switchgear and boiler.

It is expected the Floyd G. Browne Associates of Marion can project the original survey report in about a month.

It was reported last night that the city could save considerable money on engineering fees if action were taken now. Manufacturers have also advised that turbines can be furnished cheaper now than in the future.

In other action, Council referred to committee a proposal by the Pennsylvania Railroad that automatic gates be installed at the N. Market and James St. crossings and flasher lights be placed at the now unguarded State Line Rd. crossing.

The city had asked the railroad for additional protection for the crossings. The railroad said federal funds would be available for the N. Market St. crossing. The changeover would effect jobs of eight crossing watchmen.

Council approved $885 in legal fees for Atty. James Allison for assistance to City Solicitor Jack Cohen in handling the city's case in an appeal by ex-police chief Richard Lotze against his dismissal last year.

Health Commissioner James Vocature reported chlorine still is being used to purify the city's water supply because of an increase in bacterial content a month ago. The use of the chemical will continue until the condition, now being investigated, is improved.

Council approved under emergency action petitions for new street surfaces in a road in Neely Manor and on W. North Ave. Ext. by residents who will be assessed.

A public meeting will be held by Council tonight on a proposed $331,000 sewage disposal plant improvement project. The meeting will be held at 8 at the City Hall.

The board also approved a program outlined by a consultant of the State Department of Education to train volunteer PTA members in each school in the techniques of screening children for hearing deficiencies.

Hancock is a part of the 1st Congressional District, which has been enlarged in a redistricting because of a loss in population, causing a reduction of from six to five congressional seats.

The 1st District was enlarged with the addition of Braxton, Calhoun, Doddridge, Gilmer, Harrison and Lewis Counties to the old counties of Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Taylor and Marion.

The new counties were formerly in the 3rd District, which was represented for years by Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey of Clarksburg.

Bailey is running in the 1st District for the first time, and is seeking nomination to his eighth term in the house without opposition on the Democratic ticket.

Rep. Arch Moore Jr. of Glen Dale is also unopposed on the GOP slate, meaning the two will battle in the Nov. 6 general election for 1st District congressman.

Power Plant Bond Issue Of $600,000 Set

EAST PALESTINE — Council Monday night approved plans for a $600,000 mortgage bond issue for the second phase of a large-scale improvement project at the city power plant after it was reported $150,000 could be saved on the project if undertaken immediately.

Council authorized action on the bond issue as soon as an engineering report on the work filed 18 months ago can be updated.

The improvement will include a 75,000-kilowatt turbine generator to provide needed increases in electrical supply for the town.

The first phase of the improvement included a new high-line, switchgear and boiler.

It is expected the Floyd G. Browne Associates of Marion can project the original survey report in about a month.

It was reported last night that the city could save considerable money on engineering fees if action were taken now. Manufacturers have also advised that turbines can be furnished cheaper now than in the future.

In other action, Council referred to committee a proposal by the Pennsylvania Railroad that automatic gates be installed at the N. Market and James St. crossings and flasher lights be placed at the now unguarded State Line Rd. crossing.

The city had asked the railroad for additional protection for the crossings. The railroad said federal funds would be available for the N. Market St. crossing. The changeover would effect jobs of eight crossing watchmen.

Council approved $885 in legal fees for Atty. James Allison for assistance to City Solicitor Jack Cohen in handling the city's case in an appeal by ex-police chief Richard Lotze against his dismissal last year.

Health Commissioner James Vocature reported chlorine still is being used to purify the city's water supply because of an increase in bacterial content a month ago. The use of the chemical will continue until the condition, now being investigated, is improved.

Council approved under emergency action petitions for new street surfaces in a road in Neely Manor and on W. North Ave. Ext. by residents who will be assessed.

A public meeting will be held by Council tonight on a proposed $331,000 sewage disposal plant improvement project. The meeting will be held at 8 at the City Hall.

Assault Case Reset

LISBON — The hearing scheduled Monday for Gordon Reynolds, 33, of Negley R. D. 1 was continued until Thursday at 1 p. m. before County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine. Reynolds is charged with assault and battery on his wife at their home April 5.

Officer Assigned

ROGERS — Second Lt. John W. Rudibaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rudibaugh, has been stationed at Ft. Polk, La., following completion of an artilery officer orientation course at Ft. Sill, Okla. Rudibaugh, 22, is a 1961 graduate of Virginia Military Institute at Lexington.

School

instructors start at $3,700 with seven increments up to $4,400 and a teacher with a bachelor degree will receive $4,100 starting salary with 10 increments up to $5,100. Five-year instructors start at $4,250 with 11 increments up to $5,460 while one with a master's degree will receive a starting salary of $4,400 with 11 increments up to $5,780.

The new schedule also provides for an additional $200 in all classifications after 15 years service in the system.

By comparison, under the old schedule set up three years ago, an instructor with a bachelor's degree started at $3,875 with only six increments available up to $4,425.

The new schedule places Southern Local in a fairly competitive position with other area districts, the board said.

In other business, the board voted to begin operating the system on Daylight Saving Time after Sunday, April 29.

The board asked for bids on repairs to the roof at No. 16 School. One bid has been received. Temporary repairs wil be made to the kitchen at No. 16 and a coat rack was ordered for the elementary rooms at the school.

The board approved the installation of an extension phone on the second floor at Franklin School. A room of elementary furniture, student desks and a teacher's desk, will be purchased. It will cost approximately $600.

Thirty new seats and 15 backs will be purchased for the auditorium at Salinevile High School. Estimates will be sought on the repair to the east ramp at the rear of the high school. Estimates also will be obtained for installing tile on the cafeteria floor at the high school.

The board also approved a program outlined by a consultant of the State Department of Education to train volunteer PTA members in each school in the techniques of screening children for hearing deficiencies.

The program wlil begin next fall. After the general screening has been completed, the final testing will be conducted by nurses or physicians.

A continuing contract was granted Mrs. Sarah Day, first grade teacher at Franklin, and a five-year contract was approved for Miss Darlene Balmos, high school science instructor. A three-year contract was granted Thomas Jones, upper elementary instructor at No. 16. One-year contracts were tentatively recommended but will be studied further and presented at a special meeting sometime next week.

Two-year non-teaching contracts were approved for Mrs. Irene Dunlap, Mrs. Hazel Hart, and Mrs. Hazel Finnicum, cooks; Fred Wilson and John Bettis, custodians; Paul Witherow and William Baugh, bus drivers, and Miss Marilyn Zigler, secretary.

Resignations were accepted from Charles Hartman, former math instructor, who is studying under a scholarship at the University of South Dakota, and Miss Bertha Armstrong, elementary instructor at Wayne School, who plans to retire.

The contract of Robert Mercer, Franklin bus driver, was terminated. He had reported verbally he did not plan to drive anymore.

The purchase of $100 of grass seed was approved for the football field. One of the service clubs will do the seeding.

The number of new animals discovered each year is about 50 mammals, 100 fish, 15 birds and 5,000 insects.

and the circuit court clerk, $4,500 a year.

Heading the Democratic candidates for county clerk is Donald C. Stewart of Pughtown, "dean" of the county's official family, who has held the post since 1932.

Stewart, 70, is seeking his sixth straight six-year term and is opposed by Nelson Ross, a carpenter at Weirton Steel Co.

Edward L. Suplee, 56, of Weirton, former county assessor from 1956-60, is unopposed for the Republican nomination.

There are four Democrats and one Republican seeking nomination as circuit court clerk.

Lou H. Hill, 77, of Weirton, seeking his fourth consecutive six-year term as circuit court clerk He is opposed for the nomination by John B. Camilli, 61, of Weirton, a real estate broker and insurance and travel agent; Theodore J. Zagula, 43, of New Cumberland R. D. 2, an independent insurance agent with an office in Newell, and Dan Grossi of Weirton, employed at Weirton Steel.

Mrs. Ora McKenzie of New Cumberland is unopposed for tfhe Republican nomination. She is the widow of Atty. Thomas McKenzie, who was solicitor of New Cumberland for many years.

Unopposed for nomination as members of the House of Delegates are Miss Callie Tsapis (D) of Weirton, seeking her third straight two-year term, and James E. Porter (R) of Weirton, a foreman in the car repair shop of Weirton Steel.

Atty. Tsapis was assistant county prosecutor in 1952-56 under Atty. Ruth Cox Turner, first woman prosecutor in the state.

Hancock voters will also nominate candidates for state senator from the 1st Senatorial District which comprises Hancock, Brooke and Ohio Counties.

Seeking the Democratic nomination are Richard W. Barnes of Wellsburg, Charles Ihlenfeld of Wheeling, and Dino Quaranta of Follansbee. Charles Hubbard, veteran member of the house, is unopposed for the GOP nomination.

There are six nonpartisan candidates seeking election to two vacant posts on the County Board of Education, from the district of Grant and Clay. The terms are for six years.

The candidates include J. Fred Allison, 535 Washington St., Newell, a foreman at the Homer Laughlin China Co., and John W. Boyd, 928 Neptune Ave., Chester, a teller at the Potters Bank & Trust Co., both incumbents.

Also in the field are George Vukas, 615 Harrison St., Newell, a supervisor at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland; Anthony L. (Tony) LaNeve, 622 Grant St., Newell, a teacher in the county system 18 years and now an instructor in East Liverpool; John C. Abrams, 438 Indiana Ave., Chester, a chemical engineer at Weirton Steel, and John Paul Jones of New Cumberland, a clerk in the hot mill of Weirton Steel.

The two winners will join Dr. W. Dale Williams of New Cumberland, president, and Mrs. Mary Swartz and Robert H. Miller, both of Weirton, on the county board.

Hancock is a part of the 1st Congressional District, which has been enlarged in a redistricting because of a loss in population, causing a reduction of from six to five congressional seats.

The 1st District was enlarged with the addition of Braxton, Calhoun, Doddridge, Gilmer, Harrison and Lewis Counties to the old counties of Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Taylor and Marion.

The new counties were formerly in the 3rd District, which was represented for years by Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey of Clarksburg.

Bailey is running in the 1st District for the first time, and is seeking nomination to his eighth term in the house without opposition on the Democratic ticket.

Rep. Arch Moore Jr. of Glen Dale is also unopposed on the GOP slate, meaning the two will battle in the Nov. 6 general election for 1st District congressman.

Farm Official Ousted In Estes Fraud Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says it has fired an official because he failed to make himself available for questioning about his relationship with Billie Sol Estes, a financier under indictment in Texas on charges of fraud.

2 Men Named In Fair Board

LISBON — Two men have been named to the Board of Directors of the Columbiana County Agricultural Society, which sponsors the annual County Fair.

They are Dale Rudibaugh of East Liverpool R. D. 1, who operates a Wellsville feed mill, and Dale Schoeni of Beloit R. D. 2, a Knox Township farmer.

Rudibaugh will take the unexpired term of Clem Laughlin, running to October 1963. Laughlin recently moved from Wayne Township to Lisbon and was unable to continue to serve because of the apportionment of memberships among townships.

Schoeni will assume the term of Commissioner Galen Greenisen, expiring in October. Greenisen resigned after an attorney general's ruling held that the posts of commissioner and fair board members were incompatible.

The 10-member board now has four new members, including two elected last fall. They are Edwin Thompson of Center Township and William Werner of New Garden.

Officers include William Maple of Hanover Township, president; Ben Weingart of Fairfield Township, vice president; Richard Stamp of Butler Township, secretary; V. B. Lemley of Center Township, treasurer, and P. R. Corey of Fairfield Township, concession secretary, Walter Johnson of St. Clair Township also is a member.

Extra Session Set

Crossing Guard Request Cleared

Council gave quick approval Monday night to a request to hire an additional adult school crossing guard to be stationed at Anderson Blvd. and Orchard Grove Ave. and scheduled a special session next Monday night at 7 to enact the required legislation.

The request was presented by Councilman Kenneth C. Berg, reporting for the street committee, who said 65 to 70 youngsters use the busy intersection each day en route to and from Lincoln School. Traffic is heavier than normal at the corner now because many motorists use Anderson Blvd. and Park Way as a detour around the rough pavement of St. Clair Ave., he added.

A SCHOOLBOY crossing guard is on duty at the intersection at present, but since he is a sixth grader he cannot do an adult's job, Berg commented. He said the request to employ an adult was supported by Patrolman Charles A. Winters, who is in charge of the city guard system.

Parents of several children requested the extra safeguard, Berg said, asking "immediate action."

The guards are hired by Safety-Service Director Owen on a part-time basis. Before the post can be filled, additional funds will have to be appropriated for the salary, Councilman George E. Willshaw of the finance committee pointed out.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said he believes the number of guards is limited to 10 by ordinance and it may be necessary to enact legislation officially boosting the force to 11.

COUNCILMAN Edward Massey asked Owen if a policeman could be stationed at the corner until the additional guard is hired. Owen replied the force already is short five men.

Cooper called Council's attention to the fact its next regular meeting falls on May 7. Since Council already has set an informal caucus for next Monday night, it agreed to meet in special session at 7 p. m. to enact the legislation to establish the extra crossing guard's post.

The motion to hire the guard was passed unanimously. Massey pointed out Owen will not be empowered to hire a guard until April 24, the day after the legislation is passed. Schools are closed this week for Easter vacation, but that would leave the crossing without protection next Monday, when classes resume, he said. Massey said that he will guard the crossing next Monday, if necessary.

IN ANOTHER phase of the street committee report, Berg proposed establishment of one - way traffic north of Haywood St., Beechwood, from Camp Alley to Reynolds St. The recommendation was accepted unanimously.

Council received a letter signed by W. O. Schneider, chairman of the Board of Public Utilities, explaining that the board has "created added responsibilities" for the position of sewer inspector held by Floyd Tice.

Tice's position is one of about 10 which a special Council "economy" committee has been considering abolishing. Tice is under the direction of the utility board as it administers the sewage system.

Schneider's letter said the board has decided to do all sanitary sewer work with its own personnel, directed by Tice. In addition, Tice will supervise the job of "locating, raising and charting all concealed manhole covers" in both the water and sewage departments, the letter said.

Council asked its planning committee to discuss the inspector's job with the board when the two meet tonight to confer on changes in office space at City Hall.

ANOTHER letter from Schneider asked Council to enact legislation changing the method of computing holiday pay for salaried employes of the water and sewage departments.

Under an ordinance passed in 1957, the men are paid $1.45 an hour extra when required to work on a holiday, Schneider's letter said. He asked legislation that would compute the holiday pay by dividing the monthly salary by 182 hours — the total worked in a month. The request was referred to the ordinance committee.

Councilman Floyd Murray, planning committee chairman, said the discussion on City Hall office space is scheduled tonight at 7. He said the participants, in addition to the committee, will include Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Owen, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, Water Supt. Donald T. Duke and Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi. Councilmen Willshaw and Frank Duffy are other members of the committee.

OWEN requested a meeting "at the earliest convenience" with the franchise committee to discuss changes in the use of the Bus Terminal that will result when the owners proceed with a remodeling project that will do away with the use of the concourse.

Buses now load and unload passengers in the concourse. Under tentative plans, the buses may use space at the rear or side of the terminal lot, Owen said. Duffy, head of the franchise committee, said a meeting probably can be arranged next week. Massey and Berg are other members of the committee.

Owen also asked the finance committee for funds to repair the city electrician's truck or purchase a new one. The truck needs six tires and the body is "in poor shape," Owen said.

"It won't last long without some repairs," he added.

Later, at the request of Massey, President Charles N. Edwards appointed a three - man committee to help decide whether the truck should be repaired or replaced. It is comprised of Willshaw, chairman, S. James Welch and Murray.

MASSEY said he feels Council should have a committee to investigate equipment requests from the director, deciding if the machinery needs replacement and calling for expert advice, if needed.

Edwards replied that he felt such a standing committee would be an encroachment of the duties of the mayor and the director, comprising the executive branch, but he believes a group could be named to look into a specific request.

Murray said the president could appoint a committee whenever a problem arises. Willshaw said the truck investigation might fall within the duties of the planning committee. Edwards replied he believes it might be more within the scope of the ordinance committee.

Then the motion was passed to name a committee to investigate the specific request on the electrician's truck.

—:—

COUNCIL approved an ordinance authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to sell to the highest bidder a one-acre tract of water department land adjoining the pumping and filtration plant in Klondyke and fronting about 100 feet on the Ohio River.

Although no mention of the project was made in the legislation, the land abuts a tract where the Ohio Power Co. intends to build a big new substation.

Council conferred in caucus with a five-member fire department committee to discuss further a request for creation of 12 additional officers' posts. Originally presented to Council April 2, the suggestion calls for establishment of a lieutenant's post for each shift at the three outlying stations and a captain's post for each shift at Central.

Asst. Chief James Pelley acted as spokesmen. Others attending were Chief Charles Bryan, Asst. Chief David Anderson and Firemen Donald Hancock and Robert Lynn.

PELLEY POINTED out a 1950 report of the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggested that: "Sufficient company officers be appointed so there shall be one on duty at all times with each company."

Replying to a charge the creation of the new jobs would give the department "more chiefs than indians," Pelley said a check showed that 13 of the 25 street department employes are paid rates higher than the labor scale and at least eight of the 17 incinerator department workers are in the same category. At present, all except four of the 31 firemen are rank-and-file members, he said.

Councilmen said they will confer with the administration to find its ideas on the proposal.

Welch reminded members that the 1-mill fire department levy should be placed on the November general election ballot for renewal. Council approved his motion asking the solicitor to draft legislation to submit the levy to the County Election Board. The proposition has been approved every five years since it first was put on the ballot in 1927.

WELCH ALSO asked the ordinance committee to investigate the possibility of closing loopholes in an ordinance requiring licensing of door-to-door salesman.

He pointed out a furnace company salesman won dismissal of a charge against him a few weeks ago in Municipal Court because he was offering "service," not a tangible item of merchandise. He had been accused of selling without a license.

Welch said amending the legislation would aid the court and the police department and also help safeguard the public.

Welch said he received a number of questions from the public asking "why the street department sends out five men on a truck where only three are needed." Welch said he investigated and found the extra men in the crews are those assigned to work in repayment for relief checks.

REFERRING TO a proposed Gardendale sewer project, Welch said he investigated to find how special assessments would be charged against property-owners who are on relief.

He said the county relief department told him it holds liens on the property of persons who are on relief. But in the case of such projects, the department drops the lien in order that the property - owners can borrow to pay the assessments, Welch said.

Willshaw requested an additional appropriation of $150 under the item, "Council incidentals," to help pay the city's $191 dues in the Ohio Municipal League. The item was overlooked when the annual appropriation was drawn up, he said. The motion passed unanimously.

WILLSHAW ALSO requested the ordinance committee to confer with the solicitor to draw up legislation that would allow the city to compel property-owners to repair sidewalks, where necessary. He said a recommendation for such an ordinance was contained in the solicitor's annual report.

Willshaw also commented that the "city is one of the worst offenders" from the standpoint of bad sidewalks. He requested a $180 appropriation to repair the sidewalk in front of City Hall, which he termed "a disgrace." He also proposed a $1,000 appropriation to repair the roof at City Hall. Both motions were passed unanimously.

Duffy said he has received a request for a street light at the upper end of Holliday St. He said he will present the required petition to the street committee.

—:—

COUNCIL APPROVED an ordinance to pay a $290 claim against the city filed by Linda Burlingame, 345 Grant St., whose auto was damaged about two months ago when hit by a skidding incinerator department truck.

Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. was excused.

The meeting opened with invocation by Pastor Lyle Euler of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Won't Bow To Khrushchev

Red China Admits Defeat In 'Big Leap Forward'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's regime has admitted dismisal defeat of its efforts to take the nation on a "big leap forward" in a big hurry. But it shows little sign of penitence or of knuckling under to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's views of how a Communist state should develop.

The results of the National People's Congress session which concluded in Peiping Monday also demonstrate little inclination to bow to Khrushchev's views of world Communist strategy.

The report of Premier Chou En-lai and the final resolution of the secret sessions disclosed a sort of "do-it-yourself" program representing a possibly desperate attempt to cure the mainland's vast economic troubles.

At the same time, Khrushchev was reminded sharply of Mao Tze-tung's view that Communist forces should never let up in efforts to "isolate U.S. imperialism and its followers" and to "strengthen the unity and might of the socialist camp."

The session brought an admission that Mao's own pet program, the people's agricultural communes, needs some revising. The communes, a device for reducing Chinese farmers virtually to the condition of slave laborers, have been a gaudy flop up to now.

But the Chinese have not given Khrushchev and Co. the satisfaction of admitting the idea of the communes was wrong, as the Kremlin has insisted all along. The final resolution defiantly announces that the Chinese party sticks to what it calls the three Red banners: "the general line, the great leap forward and the people's communes."

Insufficient economic help has been forthcoming from big brother in Moscow, and the Red Chinese now have devised a 10-point program calling for more belt-tightening and austerity.

This in itself is a defeat for the Chinese party. It is now forced to turn away from feverish attempts to build heavy industry rapidly. The agricultural situation is so bad that Peiping must now force back into farming those people who were brought to the cities to work in industries. It must also sacrifice some of its concentration on heavy industry to producing on an emergency basis the bare necessities of life for the Chinese people.

The people's communes will remain, apparently, in a revised form. The "great leap forward" will be slowed down because it must be—not because Khrushchev has decreed that there is something ideologically wrong with the idea.

In international affairs, the party's program seems to indicate that Mao Tze-tung still regards Khrushchev as an upstart who is frittering away communism's chances for rapid expansion.

McElroy Questions Wisdom Of Eliminating Tax Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy today questioned the wisdom of eliminating Ohio's sales tax stamps.

The Democratic candidate for governor said an end to the use of the stamps last Jan. 1 actually could result in an increase in taxes.

Sponsors of legislation to do away with the stamps estimated an annual tax saving of $5 million in the cost of printing them and in their redemption by charitable and other organizations.

However, McElroy said in a prepared statement, "this will be more than offset by the loss of sales tax income resulting from bankruptcies of existing firms who have not had to purchase pre-paid sales tax stamps."

McElroy added that new businesses which survive for only six months or a year will not have to purchase the stamps.

He said door-to-door salesmen from outside the state also could avoid the tax.

The attorney general asserted that the new law actually would increase the cost of government because the tax department now has a staff of 400 examiners who are able to audit only 2 or 3 per cent of Ohio's vendors.

He said the staff of examiners might have to be doubled for proper inspections.

McElroy pointed out that Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, his primary election opponent, advocated elimination of the stamps.

Goldwater Raps Kennedy Act On Steel Price Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says President Kennedy's pressure on the steel industry to rescind a price increase had "very serious implications for the future of business."

The Republican conservative leader called the President's action a "threat to the free enterprise system."

Goldwater said Kennedy "used all the power of his office, the attorney general's office and the Defense Department" to force U. S. Steel and other companies to rescind a $6-a-ton price increase.

"What will he do in the case of the automobile industry, the clothing industry if these industries should happen to increase prices?" Goldwater asked.

The Senator's remarks were made Monday at an informal news conference before he addressed the 59th annual convention of the National Paper Trade Association.

Baby's First Meal Designed To Prevent Heart Trouble

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A baby's very first meal should start him on a diet aimed at preventing a heart attack years later, two prominent physicians suggest.

That means changing the type of fats in his milk, and later on in his solid foods, they said.

The idea is to keep him from developing high amounts of cholesterol and other blood fats blamed for clogging arteries and bringing on heart attacks and strokes.

Babies are born with low levels of cholesterol in their blood, said Dr. Laurence W. Kinsell of Oakland, Calif., and Dr. Herbert Pollack of New York City.

It rises as they grow older if they eat the typical American foods high in so-called saturated fats, including dairy fats, they said.

The American Heart Association has urged a change in diet for adults. It recommends cutting down on the customary intake of saturated fats—the kind which usually are solid at room temperature—and increasing the intake of unsaturated fats supplied by vegetable oils, fish and fowl.

It would be a good idea to start babies right off on the same kind of diet, Kinsell and Pollack said at a symposium on coronary heart disease sponsored by Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital. Later they amplified their views to newsmen.

If a mother nurses her baby, she can supply the right kind of milk by eating foods high in the polyunsaturated fats, the physicians said.

If the baby is drinking formula milk, they said it should be skim milk with butter fat removed, and unsaturated fats added from corn oil, cottonseed or safflower oil.

Extra Session Set

Crossing Guard Request Cleared

Council gave quick approval Monday night to a request to hire an additional adult school crossing guard to be stationed at Anderson Blvd. and Orchard Grove Ave. and scheduled a special session next Monday night at 7 to enact the required legislation.

The request was presented by Councilman Kenneth C. Berg, reporting for the street committee, who said 65 to 70 youngsters use the busy intersection each day en route to and from Lincoln School. Traffic is heavier than normal at the corner now because many motorists use Anderson Blvd. and Park Way as a detour around the rough pavement of St. Clair Ave., he added.

A SCHOOLBOY crossing guard is on duty at the intersection at present, but since he is a sixth grader he cannot do an adult's job, Berg commented. He said the request to employ an adult was supported by Patrolman Charles A. Winters, who is in charge of the city guard system.

Parents of several children requested the extra safeguard, Berg said, asking "immediate action."

The guards are hired by Safety-Service Director Owen on a part-time basis. Before the post can be filled, additional funds will have to be appropriated for the salary, Councilman George E. Willshaw of the finance committee pointed out.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said he believes the number of guards is limited to 10 by ordinance and it may be necessary to enact legislation officially boosting the force to 11.

COUNCILMAN Edward Massey asked Owen if a policeman could be stationed at the corner until the additional guard is hired. Owen replied the force already is short five men.

Cooper called Council's attention to the fact its next regular meeting falls on May 7. Since Council already has set an informal caucus for next Monday night, it agreed to meet in special session at 7 p. m. to enact the legislation to establish the extra crossing guard's post.

The motion to hire the guard was passed unanimously. Massey pointed out Owen will not be empowered to hire a guard until April 24, the day after the legislation is passed. Schools are closed this week for Easter vacation, but that would leave the crossing without protection next Monday, when classes resume, he said. Massey said that he will guard the crossing next Monday, if necessary.

IN ANOTHER phase of the street committee report, Berg proposed establishment of one - way traffic north of Haywood St., Beechwood, from Camp Alley to Reynolds St. The recommendation was accepted unanimously.

Council received a letter signed by W. O. Schneider, chairman of the Board of Public Utilities, explaining that the board has "created added responsibilities" for the position of sewer inspector held by Floyd Tice.

Tice's position is one of about 10 which a special Council "economy" committee has been considering abolishing. Tice is under the direction of the utility board as it administers the sewage system.

Schneider's letter said the board has decided to do all sanitary sewer work with its own personnel, directed by Tice. In addition, Tice will supervise the job of "locating, raising and charting all concealed manhole covers" in both the water and sewage departments, the letter said.

Council asked its planning committee to discuss the inspector's job with the board when the two meet tonight to confer on changes in office space at City Hall.

ANOTHER letter from Schneider asked Council to enact legislation changing the method of computing holiday pay for salaried employes of the water and sewage departments.

Under an ordinance passed in 1957, the men are paid $1.45 an hour extra when required to work on a holiday, Schneider's letter said. He asked legislation that would compute the holiday pay by dividing the monthly salary by 182 hours — the total worked in a month. The request was referred to the ordinance committee.

Councilman Floyd Murray, planning committee chairman, said the discussion on City Hall office space is scheduled tonight at 7. He said the participants, in addition to the committee, will include Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Owen, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, Water Supt. Donald T. Duke and Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi. Councilmen Willshaw and Frank Duffy are other members of the committee.

OWEN requested a meeting "at the earliest convenience" with the franchise committee to discuss changes in the use of the Bus Terminal that will result when the owners proceed with a remodeling project that will do away with the use of the concourse.

Buses now load and unload passengers in the concourse. Under tentative plans, the buses may use space at the rear or side of the terminal lot, Owen said. Duffy, head of the franchise committee, said a meeting probably can be arranged next week. Massey and Berg are other members of the committee.

Owen also asked the finance committee for funds to repair the city electrician's truck or purchase a new one. The truck needs six tires and the body is "in poor shape," Owen said.

"It won't last long without some repairs," he added.

Later, at the request of Massey, President Charles N. Edwards appointed a three - man committee to help decide whether the truck should be repaired or replaced. It is comprised of Willshaw, chairman, S. James Welch and Murray.

MASSEY said he feels Council should have a committee to investigate equipment requests from the director, deciding if the machinery needs replacement and calling for expert advice, if needed.

Edwards replied that he felt such a standing committee would be an encroachment of the duties of the mayor and the director, comprising the executive branch, but he believes a group could be named to look into a specific request.

Murray said the president could appoint a committee whenever a problem arises. Willshaw said the truck investigation might fall within the duties of the planning committee. Edwards replied he believes it might be more within the scope of the ordinance committee.

Then the motion was passed to name a committee to investigate the specific request on the electrician's truck.

—:—

COUNCIL approved an ordinance authorizing the Board of Public Utilities to sell to the highest bidder a one-acre tract of water department land adjoining the pumping and filtration plant in Klondyke and fronting about 100 feet on the Ohio River.

Although no mention of the project was made in the legislation, the land abuts a tract where the Ohio Power Co. intends to build a big new substation.

Council conferred in caucus with a five-member fire department committee to discuss further a request for creation of 12 additional officers' posts. Originally presented to Council April 2, the suggestion calls for establishment of a lieutenant's post for each shift at the three outlying stations and a captain's post for each shift at Central.

Asst. Chief James Pelley acted as spokesmen. Others attending were Chief Charles Bryan, Asst. Chief David Anderson and Firemen Donald Hancock and Robert Lynn.

PELLEY POINTED out a 1950 report of the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggested that: "Sufficient company officers be appointed so there shall be one on duty at all times with each company."

Replying to a charge the creation of the new jobs would give the department "more chiefs than indians," Pelley said a check showed that 13 of the 25 street department employes are paid rates higher than the labor scale and at least eight of the 17 incinerator department workers are in the same category. At present, all except four of the 31 firemen are rank-and-file members, he said.

Councilmen said they will confer with the administration to find its ideas on the proposal.

Welch reminded members that the 1-mill fire department levy should be placed on the November general election ballot for renewal. Council approved his motion asking the solicitor to draft legislation to submit the levy to the County Election Board. The proposition has been approved every five years since it first was put on the ballot in 1927.

WELCH ALSO asked the ordinance committee to investigate the possibility of closing loopholes in an ordinance requiring licensing of door-to-door salesman.

He pointed out a furnace company salesman won dismissal of a charge against him a few weeks ago in Municipal Court because he was offering "service," not a tangible item of merchandise. He had been accused of selling without a license.

Welch said amending the legislation would aid the court and the police department and also help safeguard the public.

Welch said he received a number of questions from the public asking "why the street department sends out five men on a truck where only three are needed." Welch said he investigated and found the extra men in the crews are those assigned to work in repayment for relief checks.

REFERRING TO a proposed Gardendale sewer project, Welch said he investigated to find how special assessments would be charged against property-owners who are on relief.

He said the county relief department told him it holds liens on the property of persons who are on relief. But in the case of such projects, the department drops the lien in order that the property - owners can borrow to pay the assessments, Welch said.

Willshaw requested an additional appropriation of $150 under the item, "Council incidentals," to help pay the city's $191 dues in the Ohio Municipal League. The item was overlooked when the annual appropriation was drawn up, he said. The motion passed unanimously.

WILLSHAW ALSO requested the ordinance committee to confer with the solicitor to draw up legislation that would allow the city to compel property-owners to repair sidewalks, where necessary. He said a recommendation for such an ordinance was contained in the solicitor's annual report.

Willshaw also commented that the "city is one of the worst offenders" from the standpoint of bad sidewalks. He requested a $180 appropriation to repair the sidewalk in front of City Hall, which he termed "a disgrace." He also proposed a $1,000 appropriation to repair the roof at City Hall. Both motions were passed unanimously.

Duffy said he has received a request for a street light at the upper end of Holliday St. He said he will present the required petition to the street committee.

—:—

COUNCIL APPROVED an ordinance to pay a $290 claim against the city filed by Linda Burlingame, 345 Grant St., whose auto was damaged about two months ago when hit by a skidding incinerator department truck.

Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. was excused.

The meeting opened with invocation by Pastor Lyle Euler of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Lisbon Man Awaits Florida Prosecution

LISBON — Doy Lee Knight, 24, of R. D. waived extradition Monday before Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard and agreed to return to Starke, Fla., for prosecution on traffic manslaughter.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan picked up Knight on a warrant from Florida authorities, alleging he was the driver of a car involved in an accident with another in which a passenger was killed.

The sheriff said Florida authorities are en route to Lisbon to return Knight.

Won't Bow To Khrushchev

Red China Admits Defeat In 'Big Leap Forward'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's regime has admitted dismisal defeat of its efforts to take the nation on a "big leap forward" in a big hurry. But it shows little sign of penitence or of knuckling under to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's views of how a Communist state should develop.

The results of the National People's Congress session which concluded in Peiping Monday also demonstrate little inclination to bow to Khrushchev's views of world Communist strategy.

The report of Premier Chou En-lai and the final resolution of the secret sessions disclosed a sort of "do-it-yourself" program representing a possibly desperate attempt to cure the mainland's vast economic troubles.

At the same time, Khrushchev was reminded sharply of Mao Tze-tung's view that Communist forces should never let up in efforts to "isolate U.S. imperialism and its followers" and to "strengthen the unity and might of the socialist camp."

The session brought an admission that Mao's own pet program, the people's agricultural communes, needs some revising. The communes, a device for reducing Chinese farmers virtually to the condition of slave laborers, have been a gaudy flop up to now.

But the Chinese have not given Khrushchev and Co. the satisfaction of admitting the idea of the communes was wrong, as the Kremlin has insisted all along. The final resolution defiantly announces that the Chinese party sticks to what it calls the three Red banners: "the general line, the great leap forward and the people's communes."

Insufficient economic help has been forthcoming from big brother in Moscow, and the Red Chinese now have devised a 10-point program calling for more belt-tightening and austerity.

This in itself is a defeat for the Chinese party. It is now forced to turn away from feverish attempts to build heavy industry rapidly. The agricultural situation is so bad that Peiping must now force back into farming those people who were brought to the cities to work in industries. It must also sacrifice some of its concentration on heavy industry to producing on an emergency basis the bare necessities of life for the Chinese people.

The people's communes will remain, apparently, in a revised form. The "great leap forward" will be slowed down because it must be—not because Khrushchev has decreed that there is something ideologically wrong with the idea.

In international affairs, the party's program seems to indicate that Mao Tze-tung still regards Khrushchev as an upstart who is frittering away communism's chances for rapid expansion.

McElroy Questions Wisdom Of Eliminating Tax Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy today questioned the wisdom of eliminating Ohio's sales tax stamps.

The Democratic candidate for governor said an end to the use of the stamps last Jan. 1 actually could result in an increase in taxes.

Sponsors of legislation to do away with the stamps estimated an annual tax saving of $5 million in the cost of printing them and in their redemption by charitable and other organizations.

However, McElroy said in a prepared statement, "this will be more than offset by the loss of sales tax income resulting from bankruptcies of existing firms who have not had to purchase pre-paid sales tax stamps."

McElroy added that new businesses which survive for only six months or a year will not have to purchase the stamps.

He said door-to-door salesmen from outside the state also could avoid the tax.

The attorney general asserted that the new law actually would increase the cost of government because the tax department now has a staff of 400 examiners who are able to audit only 2 or 3 per cent of Ohio's vendors.

He said the staff of examiners might have to be doubled for proper inspections.

McElroy pointed out that Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, his primary election opponent, advocated elimination of the stamps.

IT'S CLEANUP TIME AGAIN

Yes, it's cleanup time, all across America, and you and your neighbors will be burning last year's grass, old papers, trash, and the piles of limbs from the trees that fell last winter.

Smokey Bear says that careless debris burning is one of the principal causes of forest fires, year after year.

So when you're ready to strike that match, won't you heed SMOKEY's simple rules?

1. Check with your local fire warden or fire department before you burn! You may need a permit for any fire outdoors!

2. Have tools, water, and enough help to be sure your fire can't get away!

3. Don't burn on dry, windy days, when fires run fast and sparks and embers fly!

4. Never leave a fire—any fire—burning unattended!

Remember- only YOU can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

They Walked With Christ

THE WOULD-BE DISCIPLE

"And another also said, Lord, I will follow thee; but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house."

—Luke IX: 61

Among those who gathered often to listen to Jesus, there were always some who, moved by His words, wanted then and there to become disciples.

This man was one of them. He had not stopped to consider what discipleship really meant: a total change in one's familiar habits and thinking.

Family responsibilities, possessions, home, self-concern—all these had to become secondary for the man who would follow in the way of the Master.

Jesus demonstrated this in His own life from the first. When He was only twelve and His mother, believing Him lost, finally found Him questioning the learned doctors at the Temple, He told His parents:

"How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Years later, during His ministry, as He talked to the people, "his mother and his brethren stand without, desiring to speak with him." But His answer was:

"Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?"

Did this mean that earthly relations were of no importance? Not at all. The tenderest and most filial bond existed between the Savior and His mother. Even as He was dying upon the Cross, He thought of her welfare and committed her care to John, the beloved disciple.

What He did mean was that God and the service of God must come first.

"He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me," He had told His own disciples.

But this would-be disciple could not understand this. He had thought that following Jesus could be merely an exciting avocation, like music, art, or philosophy.

It had not occurred to him that, as William Law once observed, " 'Our kingdom go' is the necessary and unavoidable corollary of 'Thy kingdom come.' "

Newell Lions Air Proposal For Better Street Lighting

A proposal for street light improvements in Newell was discussed at a meeting of the Newell Lions Club Monday night in the Shamrock Restaurant.

Guest speakers were Paul Hutchinson and Walter Jordan of Monongahela Power Co. and Glenn Hall of the Newel Co.

A committee of Dick Smith, John Robison, Harry Skeeles and Albert Logston was named to work with the three officials in mapping a plan of procedure for better illumination.

The utility will soon install a new 750-candlepower light in the community on a temporary basis as a means of comparison with the present 250-candlepower type.

Leonard Copestick, president, conducted business and a contribution of $15 to the Post-Prom Organization of Wells High School was approved.

The club will sponsor jointly with the Newell Woman's Club a dinner May 18 at the Country Club for Wells High seniors. Plans for the event were announced by Dick Brenneman.

Logston reported on the sight-conservation committee, and Dana Howell, on the fund-raising projects.

Robison screened movies of the 1961 World Series. A Board of Directors meeting will be held April 30 at Copestick's home. Next dinner meeting is May 7 when officers will be elected. The election scheduled last night was postponed.

Presbyterian Group Elects

New officers were elected at a meeting of the Presbyterian Men of the Riverside Presbyterian Church at Wellsville Monday night.

Don Salsberry was named president to succeed Jerry Russell, who conducted business.

Because the Ohio Supreme Court still hasn't issued a ruling on a candidate for state treasurer, the County Election Board told the Wellsville Publishing Co. Monday to resume printing the GOP ballot for the May 8 primary.

Some of the Republican ballots had been printed but the work then was delayed because John H. Ferguson, seeking to be a GOP candidate for state treasurer, contested a ruling by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown that denied him a ballot place.

However, Brown instructed the board not to delay the printing beyond the date that would assure delivery of the ballots in time for the primary, Frank R. O'Hanlon, election board clerk, explained.

IT'S CLEANUP TIME AGAIN

Yes, it's cleanup time, all across America, and you and your neighbors will be burning last year's grass, old papers, trash, and the piles of limbs from the trees that fell last winter.

Smokey Bear says that careless debris burning is one of the principal causes of forest fires, year after year.

So when you're ready to strike that match, won't you heed SMOKEY's simple rules?

1. Check with your local fire warden or fire department before you burn! You may need a permit for any fire outdoors!

2. Have tools, water, and enough help to be sure your fire can't get away!

3. Don't burn on dry, windy days, when fires run fast and sparks and embers fly!

4. Never leave a fire—any fire—burning unattended!

Remember- only YOU can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

They Walked With Christ

THE WOULD-BE DISCIPLE

"And another also said, Lord, I will follow thee; but let me first go bid them farewell, which are at home at my house."

—Luke IX: 61

Among those who gathered often to listen to Jesus, there were always some who, moved by His words, wanted then and there to become disciples.

This man was one of them. He had not stopped to consider what discipleship really meant: a total change in one's familiar habits and thinking.

Family responsibilities, possessions, home, self-concern—all these had to become secondary for the man who would follow in the way of the Master.

Jesus demonstrated this in His own life from the first. When He was only twelve and His mother, believing Him lost, finally found Him questioning the learned doctors at the Temple, He told His parents:

"How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Years later, during His ministry, as He talked to the people, "his mother and his brethren stand without, desiring to speak with him." But His answer was:

"Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?"

Did this mean that earthly relations were of no importance? Not at all. The tenderest and most filial bond existed between the Savior and His mother. Even as He was dying upon the Cross, He thought of her welfare and committed her care to John, the beloved disciple.

What He did mean was that God and the service of God must come first.

"He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me," He had told His own disciples.

But this would-be disciple could not understand this. He had thought that following Jesus could be merely an exciting avocation, like music, art, or philosophy.

It had not occurred to him that, as William Law once observed, "'Our kingdom go' is the necessary and unavoidable corollary of 'Thy kingdom come.'"

Newell Lions Air Proposal For Better Street Lighting

A proposal for street light improvements in Newell was discussed at a meeting of the Newell Lions Club Monday night in the Shamrock Restaurant.

The club will sponsor jointly with the Newell Woman's Club a dinner May 18 at the Country Club for Wells High seniors. Plans for the event were announced by Dick Brenneman.

Logston reported on the sight-conservation committee, and Dana Howell, on the fund-raising projects.

'Idea Is Accepted'

Midland Board Dislikes Present Joint School Act

The Midland Board of Education Monday night discussed the questionnaire of state school directors on Act 561, proposing larger school districts by 1965, and said it "accepts the idea" but does not favor the act in its present form.

Gerald Newton and Raymond Robertson, assistant superintendents of Beaver County Schools, attended the meeting to answer directors on the questionnaire.

The questionnaire was made up by the Pennsylvania State School Directors' Association to obtain opinions of school board members on certain items for the reorganization of school districts in any legislation which may be introduced in the 1963 session of the General Assembly.

The forms asked about 43 answers, including eight asked for by the county school office.

Supt. Ralph H. Jewell of Midland reviewed the act for members. By July 1, 1965, the state plans to have the new districts in operation with at least 4,000 pupils in each or 2,500 in special cases.

Jewell said that by January 1963, the county board, through conferences with local boards, must prepare a plan of the districts and submit it to the state. If the county does not have a plan by January 1964, then the state Council of Education will make the plan. Then in 1965, the district must accept the plan whether drawn up by the county or state.

Newton pointed out that the county school office and county Supt. H. C. Elder are not forcing the reorganization on districts but will explain the situation and offer alternatives for boards.

Gov. David L. Lawrence signed Act 561 last August, requiring school districts to merge into larger and more economical units. The state's 2,300 districts will be lumped into 600 or 650.

Midland directors voted against support of the act by county school directors in its present form, believing the act should be amended or repealed.

Jewell said the council is now appointed by the governor. Directors are not in favor of a state income tax earmarked for education. Jewell said "many people say they are for such a tax but never act for it."

Apparently Midland will be enlarged either by joining the Western Beaver County School District of Ohioville and Industry boroughs or the Southern Beaver County Board Joint Board of Education near Hookstown or both. The Southern Beaver County area will be made accessible by the Shippingport Bridge.

A county plan for the new districts is expected to be ready by late December. Results of the opinions of directors, countywide, will be made available to all directors later.

John Uccellini and Frank Aloi were unable to attend last night. They are to fill in their questionnaires. Five directors attended including James Morrison, president, who presided.

East End Man Pleads Guilty On Tax Case

Haled before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today on a bench warrant after ignoring his first "date" with the court, an East End man was given a suspended fine of $50 and costs and a 20-minute lecture when he pleaded guilty to failure to pay the 1961 city income tax.

Donald Crumbley, 1001 Monaca St., admitted under questioning by the judge that he "did not believe" in the municipal income levy. He was ordered to pay the $7.50 costs and warned to make certain he files a return under the new tax law that went into effect March 2.

Crumbley originally had been scheduled to appear Friday. When he did not report to court, the judge issued a capias for his arrest, which was served by police yesterday.

Crumbley was the second to be fined for violating the 1961 tax law. A suspended $50 fine was given Wednesday to Joseph Lucas, 515 Elm St.

The judge commented that he was lenient with Crumbley because the defendant displayed a receipt to show he paid the $12 tax last Friday and had advised the court that his wife is expecting a second child soon.

Explaining his non-appearance Friday, Crumbley told the court: "I called the solicitor. He told me to pay the tax and the court costs. He didn't tell me anything about being in court or I would have been here."

Later, under questioning by the judge, Crumbley admitted that the solicitor did not say anything to him about not appearing in court as ordered in a summons served last week.

"Why didn't you file an estimate of your tax?" The judge asked Crumbley. "Don't you believe in the tax?"

"No, sir," the defendant replied.

Questioned further, Crumbley said he could not give the court "a good reason" why he failed to file a 1961 return.

"You wouldn't have paid if you hadn't been arrested," Judge Chertoff said. "What would happen if everybody felt this way? We wouldn't even have a city."

He warned Crumbley to be certain to file a 1962 return "or you will be back here."

Commenting on Crumbley's statement he had not been told to appear in court, the judge said: "Somehow or other, your story doesn't ring true. You knew you had been served with a summons to appear. Then you got in touch with the solicitor and he told you to pay the tax. It is pretty hard for me to believe the solicitor would tell you needn't appear. I know him better than that."

In addition to Crumbley and Lucas, tax charges were filed last week against Clarence E. Collins, 631 Dresden Ave. But Collins' hearing was postponed because he was hospitalized.

Truck, Chemical Bids Authorized In Council Action

Council enacted legislation Monday night authorizing bids on purchase of two new trucks for the street department and a year's supply of chemicals for the city water department.

Council already has provided $6,000 out of income tax revenue to pay for the trucks. The purchase will be made by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen, comprising the Board of Control.

Pilots Strike Postponed By Kennedy Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—An eleventh-hour appeal by President Kennedy has brought postponement—at least until midnight—of a pilots' strike that would halt Pan American World Airways flights to 114 cities in 80 lands.

Management and the Air Line Pilots Association sit down with Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg again today for a new effort to achieve a more permanent solution.

Pan American already has agreed to Kennedy's proposal that the touchy issue of jet flight crews be placed before three arbitrators named by the President.

The union still is considering the plan after postponing for 24 hours a strike by 1,400 Pan Am pilots

Th President's dramatic bid to avert a walkout he said would be "deplorable and unnecessary" came after hours of efforts by Goldberg to obtain a settlement ended in failure Monday night.

Kennedy stepped into the dispute with a declaration that "this shut-down of one of our most important carriers is unnecessary and should not occur."

He asked union and management to submit their dispute to "final and binding impartial arbitration."

Kennedy chose Dr. George Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania, President George Meany of the AFL-CIO and President Edgar Kaiser of Kaiser Industries, Inc., to serve as arbitrators.

The flight crew issue—Kennedy called it a "vexing problem"—involves Pan American's desire to cut the basic crew of jet airliners from four to three men.

Negotiations also have covered wages, hours and working conditions.

Another union, the Flight Engineers International Association, also is involved in the crew dispute.

Neither union wants the personnel sliced from jet crews to be men it represents.

Man Pays Twice For Lone Arrest

For the second time in 24 hours, Robert M. Reed, 46, of 466 Mulberry St., paid a penalty today in Municipal Court on an intoxication charge filed by police Sunday night as the aftermath of an alleged domestic disturbance at his home.

When Reed failed to appear for a hearing Monday morning, Judge Samuel M. Chertoff ordered his $32.50 bond forfeited. Then he issued a bench warrant for Reed's arrest, declaring the defendant has made a practice of forfeiting bonds to avoid appearance in court.

Pleading guilty today, Reed was fined $10 and $7.50 costs. The judge explained to him that the bond forfeited yesterday was simply for his appearance and its forfeiture did not dispose of the charge.

"Stop making a spectacle of yourself so that the police are called up there frequently," the judge told Reed. "The next time, I will request the police department to charge you under the state law so that you can be sent to the County Jail."

Why Pay to Heat 4 Houses

When you use only One? Heat with Gas for about ¼ the cost of Wired Resistance Heat. It's a fact . . . you can heat about 4 houses with Gas for what it costs to heat only one with Wired Resistance Heating! Not only is Gas heat more economical, it does a complete heating job. Fresh air is gently circulated and filtered clean in a forced air Gas System. Your entire home is kept comfortable by setting just one thermostat. And you can add central Gas cooling whenever you wish.

Contrast the automatic Gas system with wired resistance heat which offers no air circulation, no ventilation, no filtering of the air, and individual room thermostats that require separate adjusting. Which system is more modern? We think you will decide for Gas, when you get all the facts and compare both systems. Gas heating is used in practically all new homes today, where Gas is available.

'Idea Is Accepted'

Midland Board Dislikes Present Joint School Act

The Midland Board of Education Monday night discussed the questionnaire of state school directors on Act 561, proposing larger school districts by 1965, and said it "accepts the idea" but does not favor the act in its present form.

Gerald Newton and Raymond Robertson, assistant superintendents of Beaver County Schools, attended the meeting to answer directors on the questionnaire.

The questionnaire was made up by the Pennsylvania State School Directors' Association to obtain opinions of school board members on certain items for the reorganization of school districts in any legislation which may be introduced in the 1963 session of the General Assembly.

The forms asked about 43 answers, including eight asked for by the county school office.

Supt. Ralph H. Jewell of Midland reviewed the act for members. By July 1, 1965, the state plans to have the new districts in operation with at least 4,000 pupils in each or 2,500 in special cases.

Jewell said that by January 1963, the county board, through conferences with local boards, must prepare a plan of the districts and submit it to the state. If the county does not have a plan by January 1964, then the state Council of Education will make the plan. Then in 1965, the district must accept the plan whether drawn up by the county or state.

Newton pointed out that the county school office and county Supt. H. C. Elder are not forcing the reorganization on districts but will explain the situation and offer alternatives for boards.

Gov. David L. Lawrence signed Act 561 last August, requiring school districts to merge into larger and more economical units. The state's 2,300 districts will be lumped into 600 or 650.

Midland directors voted against support of the act by county school directors in its present form, believing the act should be amended or repealed.

Jewell said the council is now appointed by the governor. Directors are not in favor of a state income tax earmarked for education. Jewell said "many people say they are for such a tax but never act for it."

Apparently Midland will be enlarged either by joining the Western Beaver County School District of Ohioville and Industry boroughs or the Southern Beaver County Board Joint Board of Education near Hookstown or both. The Southern Beaver County area will be made accessible by the Shippingport Bridge.

A county plan for the new districts is expected to be ready by late December. Results of the opinions of directors, countywide, will be made available to all directors later.

John Uccellini and Frank Aloi were unable to attend last night. They are to fill in their questionnaires. Five directors attended including James Morrison, president, who presided.

East End Man Pleads Guilty On Tax Case

Haled before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today on a bench warrant after ignoring his first "date" with the court, an East End man was given a suspended fine of $50 and costs and a 20-minute lecture when he pleaded guilty to failure to pay the 1961 city income tax.

Donald Crumbley, 1001 Monaca St., admitted under questioning by the judge that he "did not believe" in the municipal income levy. He was ordered to pay the $7.50 costs and warned to make certain he files a return under the new tax law that went into effect March 2.

Crumbley originally had been scheduled to appear Friday. When he did not report to court, the judge issued a capias for his arrest, which was served by police yesterday.

Crumbley was the second to be fined for violating the 1961 tax law. A suspended $50 fine was given Wednesday to Joseph Lucas, 515 Elm St.

The judge commented that he was lenient with Crumbley because the defendant displayed a receipt to show he paid the $12 tax last Friday and had advised the court that his wife is expecting a second child soon.

Explaining his non-appearance Friday, Crumbley told the court: "I called the solicitor. He told me to pay the tax and the court costs. He didn't tell me anything about being in court or I would have been here."

Later, under questioning by the judge, Crumbley admitted that the solicitor did not say anything to him about not appearing in court as ordered in a summons served last week.

"Why didn't you file an estimate of your tax?" The judge asked Crumbley. "Don't you believe in the tax?"

"No, sir," the defendant replied.

Questioned further, Crumbley said he could not give the court "a good reason" why he failed to file a 1961 return.

"You wouldn't have paid if you hadn't been arrested," Judge Chertoff said. "What would happen if everybody felt this way? We wouldn't even have a city."

He warned Crumbley to be certain to file a 1962 return "or you will be back here."

Commenting on Crumbley's statement he had not been told to appear in court, the judge said: "Somehow or other, your story doesn't ring true. You knew you had been served with a summons to appear. Then you got in touch with the solicitor and he told you to pay the tax. It is pretty hard for me to believe the solicitor would tell you needn't appear. I know him better than that."

In addition to Crumbley and Lucas, tax charges were filed last week against Clarence E. Collins, 631 Dresden Ave. But Collins' hearing was postponed because he was hospitalized.

When you use only One? Heat with Gas for about ¼ the cost of Wired Resistance Heat. It's a fact . . . you can heat about 4 houses with Gas for what it costs to heat only one with Wired Resistance Heating! Not only is Gas heat more economical, it does a complete heating job. Fresh air is gently circulated and filtered clean in a forced air Gas System. Your entire home is kept comfortable by setting just one thermostat. And you can add central Gas cooling whenever you wish.

Contrast the automatic Gas system with wired resistance heat which offers no air circulation, no ventilation, no filtering of the air, and individual room thermostats that require separate adjusting. Which system is more modern? We think you will decide for Gas, when you get all the facts and compare both systems. Gas heating is used in practically all new homes today, where Gas is available.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

'I'm A Hayseed Again'

The big mop of farmboy hair is mostly gray with patches of white now, and the sideburns are more Hollywood than Belleville, Ill. The suit is dark and richly tailored. The tie is white. And the outlook from those light-blue eyes is sophisticated.

Alan Gill

But you'd recognize Buddy Ebsen anywhere. He's still the boy friend of Judy Canova, the sidekick of Davey Crockett, and the long-boned drink of water who danced with Shirley Temple in "Cap'n January" so many years ago.

-:-

HE STILL gives that slow, stiff stretch of the shoulders before he speaks. Just under his left eye, there's a piece of tape.

"I had a little thing there I had taken off," he said.

"Do you tend to be a warty fellow?" he was asked, somewhat crassly.

"Oh, yeah, I used to get dozens of warts on my hands when I was a kid back in Belleville."

So there you've got him, warts and all—Buddy Ebsen.

Mr. Ebsen is in New York at the moment rehearsing for a "Presents" drama by Tad Mosel, in the illustrious company of Jason Robards Jr., Kim Stanley and Patricia Neal.

You'll get a chance to see "That's Where the Town's Going!" tonight at 10 p.m.

-:-

"I PLAY a kind of alley cat in a small Midwestern town, who's hovering over these two spinsters. Jason Robards breezes in, stirs things up, and then leaves again. At the end, I'm still hovering. And the thing is, what the girls really need is me."

He smiled a sweet, bumpkin grin, with a glint of evil in it.

"See?"

"Is that the way the part was written?" a visitor asked.

"Well," Buddy Ebsen said with a stretch of the shoulders, "that may not be what Mr. Mosel had in mind, but it's what I have in mind."

Later Mr. Ebsen will go on back to Hollywood to film a few episodes for a series he'll star in for CBS next fall.

"Beverly Hillsbillies," it's called, and it concerns an Ozark clan that strikes it rich in oil and moves in on an upper-crust community near Hollywood. "Y'see, I'm a hayseed again," he said, with a note of regret in his voice.

-:-

BUDDY EBSEN didn't exactly start that way. He came to New York in 1926, with only a few coins in his pockets and the notion of being a doctor in his mind. He soda-jerked for a while and then, suddenly, he had a spot with his sister, Vilma, in the Ziegfeld show, "Whoopee."

The dance team of Vilma & Buddy Ebsen were headliners for years on the vaudeville circuit—part of a troupe called Benny Davis and His Future Stars.

Then came "Flying Colors," the Follies and Hollywood. "Broadway Melody of 1936" was the first one, then Broadway stardom in "Yokel Boy," then back to the movies for a string of hayseed parts.

-:-

NOT TOO LONG ago, Mr. Ebsen and his business manager came to a conclusion.

"We decided we'd make the part the thing and not the money. We'd talk about the money later. So, along came 'Breakfast at Tiffany's' and we grabbed it.

"In 'The Interns' I play the head of a hospital. There's no smell of the barn in that one. I like to get out of the overalls whenever I can. And no more buckskins for me, no, sir! In hot weather, you melt in 'em, and in winter they hang on you like a wet fish. I don't know how the pioneers could stand 'em.

"Now a part I'd like is 'Dodsworth.' My wife is an actress and one day she and I just might do it together. I'm in a playwriting group at UCLA and I have a play written—pretty good, too—and a musical book I have some hopes about."

DID HE EVER play a villain?"

"Well, there are dirty dog villains and gray villains. I can do a gray one okay.

"My favorite part was in a cowboy movie where I was a cold-blooded murderer but so charmin', a real likeable feller when I wasn't bumpin' somebody off."

To look at him, there's nothing gray or dirty dog about Buddy Ebsen. No, sir!

Boys Admit Smashing Chester School Panes

Four boys have admitted breaking 11 windows at the Chester Central elementary school building Sunday, Police Chief Harold Davis reported.

He said the boys — two 9, one 10 and the other 11 — admitted the vandalism Monday morning. Thayer Allison, principal, reported the broken window to Davis, who investigated. Stones, found in the building, had apparently been thrown through the windows by the boys.

Davis said he planned to contact the boys' parents, who are liable for the damage. He asked that anyone seeing persons damaging property to notify police immediately.

Coroner's Inquest Set In Mysterious Deaths

CLEVELAND (AP)—It is hoped a coroner's inquest today may uncover some clues in the mysterious deaths April 8 of Richard Conley, 37, of Hayward, Calif., and Theron Wells, 24, of Tacoma, Wash. Both were found dead in a suburban Parma Heights motel.

A traveling companion of the dead men, Raphiel Fernandez, 34, of Tacoma, was to testify at the inquest at County Morgue.

Sandusky Editor Dies At Age 64

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Paul L. Heiberger, executive editor of the Sandusky Register and a former city commissioner died today in Providence Hospital here. He was 64.

A newspaper man here for 43 years, Heiberger suffered a heart attack a year ago. He started as a reporter in 1919, and served as city editor both on the Star-Journal, afternoon paper, and on the Old Register, a morning paper.

Three Sandusky papers later merged operations under the name Register-Star - News, and Heiberger became executive editor. The name of the paper subsequently was shortened to the Register.

Heiberger served 14 years on the city commission starting in 1943, and was commission president—an office equivalent to mayor—in 1944 and 1945.

Surviving are the widow, Helen, and a son, Paul K. Heiberger, of Chicago.

Interest Rises For Funds To Pay Ransom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Just a year ago, about 1,500 Cuban exiles invaded their homeland in a daring but unsuccessful effort to oust Fidel Castro.

The expanding and divided exile colony today appears more interested in raising funds to buy the freedom of prisoners taken in that incursion than to buy arms for another move against Castro.

Happiness in much of the colony over the prospect of ransoming all the 1,179 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners for $62 million—the price set by Castro—is offset by general gloom over fading hope of returning to Cuba soon.

There is less talk at the moment, on the surface at least, of possible anti-Castro military action than perhaps at any time in two years.

The Cuban Revolutionary Council, formed a month before the April 17, 1961, invasion in order to help organize it, still exists. It is the largest of about 200 anti-Castro groups, and the only one maintaining contact with the U.S. government.

Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, its first president, still is at the helm.

Asked for a statement on the invasion anniversary, Miro Cardona declined. Last weekend, while at Miami International Airport to greet 60 ransomed Bay of Pigs prisoners, the council head said merely his attitude was "one of hope."

The most widely held opinion among Miami's 75,000 exiles is that the United States will have to carry a major share of the burden if the Castro regime is to be overthrown.

Man, 25, Confesses To Fatal Shooting

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 25-year-old Cleveland man surrendered to police Monday and signed a statement admitting the fatal shooting of Kenneth L. Martin, 53, during a weekend robbery at a drugstore, police said.

Charged with first-degree murder in a warrant issued prior to the arrest was Donald Jean Coleman, who was a parolee from the Mansfield Reformatory where he had served time for forgery.

Coleman had been sought since Sunday when three witnesses identified him as the gunman who shot Martin, a drugstore clerk, in a robbery which netted $20.

'I'm A Hayseed Again'

The big mop of farmboy hair is mostly gray with patches of white now, and the sideburns are more Hollywood than Belleville, Ill. The suit is dark and richly tailored. The tie is white. And the outlook from those light-blue eyes is sophisticated.

Alan Gill

But you'd recognize Buddy Ebsen anywhere. He's still the boy friend of Judy Canova, the sidekick of Davey Crockett, and the long-boned drink of water who danced with Shirley Temple in "Cap'n January" so many years ago.

-:-

HE STILL gives that slow, stiff stretch of the shoulders before he speaks. Just under his left eye, there's a piece of tape.

"I had a little thing there I had taken off," he said.

"Do you tend to be a warty fellow?" he was asked, somewhat crassly.

"Oh, yeah, I used to get dozens of warts on my hands when I was a kid back in Belleville."

So there you've got him, warts and all—Buddy Ebsen.

Mr. Ebsen is in New York at the moment rehearsing for a "Presents" drama by Tad Mosel, in the illustrious company of Jason Robards Jr., Kim Stanley and Patricia Neal.

You'll get a chance to see "That's Where the Town's Going!" tonight at 10 p.m.

-:-

"I PLAY a kind of alley cat in a small Midwestern town, who's hovering over these two spinsters. Jason Robards breezes in, stirs things up, and then leaves again. At the end, I'm still hovering. And the thing is, what the girls really need is me."

He smiled a sweet, bumpkin grin, with a glint of evil in it.

"See?"

"Is that the way the part was written?" a visitor asked.

"Well," Buddy Ebsen said with a stretch of the shoulders, "that may not be what Mr. Mosel had in mind, but it's what I have in mind."

Later Mr. Ebsen will go on back to Hollywood to film a few episodes for a series he'll star in for CBS next fall.

"Beverly Hillsbillies," it's called, and it concerns an Ozark clan that strikes it rich in oil and moves in on an upper-crust community near Hollywood. "Y'see, I'm a hayseed again," he said, with a note of regret in his voice.

BUDDY EBSEN didn't exactly start that way. He came to New York in 1926, with only a few coins in his pockets and the notion of being a doctor in his mind. He soda-jerked for a while and then, suddenly, he had a spot with his sister, Vilma, in the Ziegfeld show, "Whoopee."

The dance team of Vilma & Buddy Ebsen were headliners for years on the vaudeville circuit—part of a troupe called Benny Davis and His Future Stars.

Then came "Flying Colors," the Follies and Hollywood. "Broadway Melody of 1936" was the first one, then Broadway stardom in "Yokel Boy," then back to the movies for a string of hayseed parts.

NOT TOO LONG ago, Mr. Ebsen and his business manager came to a conclusion.

"We decided we'd make the part the thing and not the money. We'd talk about the money later. So, along came 'Breakfast at Tiffany's' and we grabbed it.

"In 'The Interns' I play the head of a hospital. There's no smell of the barn in that one. I like to get out of the overalls whenever I can. And no more buckskins for me, no, sir! In hot weather, you melt in 'em, and in winter they hang on you like a wet fish. I don't know how the pioneers could stand 'em.

"Now a part I'd like is 'Dodsworth.' My wife is an actress and one day she and I just might do it together. I'm in a playwriting group at UCLA and I have a play written—pretty good, too—and a musical book I have some hopes about."

DID HE EVER play a villain?"

"Well, there are dirty dog villains and gray villains. I can do a gray one okay.

"My favorite part was in a cowboy movie where I was a cold-blooded murderer but so charmin', a real likeable feller when I wasn't bumpin' somebody off."

To look at him, there's nothing gray or dirty dog about Buddy Ebsen. No, sir!

Boys Admit Smashing Chester School Panes

Four boys have admitted breaking 11 windows at the Chester Central elementary school building Sunday, Police Chief Harold Davis reported.

He said the boys — two 9, one 10 and the other 11 — admitted the vandalism Monday morning. Thayer Allison, principal, reported the broken window to Davis, who investigated. Stones, found in the building, had apparently been thrown through the windows by the boys.

Davis said he planned to contact the boys' parents, who are liable for the damage. He asked that anyone seeing persons damaging property to notify police immediately.

Coroner's Inquest Set In Mysterious Deaths

CLEVELAND (AP)—It is hoped a coroner's inquest today may uncover some clues in the mysterious deaths April 8 of Richard Conley, 37, of Hayward, Calif., and Theron Wells, 24, of Tacoma, Wash. Both were found dead in a suburban Parma Heights motel.

A traveling companion of the dead men, Raphiel Fernandez, 34, of Tacoma, was to testify at the inquest at County Morgue.

Sandusky Editor Dies At Age 64

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Paul L. Heiberger, executive editor of the Sandusky Register and a former city commissioner died today in Providence Hospital here. He was 64.

A newspaper man here for 43 years, Heiberger suffered a heart attack a year ago. He started as a reporter in 1919, and served as city editor both on the Star-Journal, afternoon paper, and on the Old Register, a morning paper.

Three Sandusky papers later merged operations under the name Register-Star - News, and Heiberger became executive editor. The name of the paper subsequently was shortened to the Register.

Heiberger served 14 years on the city commission starting in 1943, and was commission president—an office equivalent to mayor—in 1944 and 1945.

Surviving are the widow, Helen, and a son, Paul K. Heiberger, of Chicago.

Interest Rises For Funds To Pay Ransom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Just a year ago, about 1,500 Cuban exiles invaded their homeland in a daring but unsuccessful effort to oust Fidel Castro.

The expanding and divided exile colony today appears more interested in raising funds to buy the freedom of prisoners taken in that incursion than to buy arms for another move against Castro.

Happiness in much of the colony over the prospect of ransoming all the 1,179 Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners for $62 million—the price set by Castro—is offset by general gloom over fading hope of returning to Cuba soon.

There is less talk at the moment, on the surface at least, of possible anti-Castro military action than perhaps at any time in two years.

The Cuban Revolutionary Council, formed a month before the April 17, 1961, invasion in order to help organize it, still exists. It is the largest of about 200 anti-Castro groups, and the only one maintaining contact with the U.S. government.

Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, its first president, still is at the helm.

Asked for a statement on the invasion anniversary, Miro Cardona declined. Last weekend, while at Miami International Airport to greet 60 ransomed Bay of Pigs prisoners, the council head said merely his attitude was "one of hope."

The most widely held opinion among Miami's 75,000 exiles is that the United States will have to carry a major share of the burden if the Castro regime is to be overthrown.

Man, 25, Confesses To Fatal Shooting

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 25-year-old Cleveland man surrendered to police Monday and signed a statement admitting the fatal shooting of Kenneth L. Martin, 53, during a weekend robbery at a drugstore, police said.

Charged with first-degree murder in a warrant issued prior to the arrest was Donald Jean Coleman, who was a parolee from the Mansfield Reformatory where he had served time for forgery.

Coleman had been sought since Sunday when three witnesses identified him as the gunman who shot Martin, a drugstore clerk, in a robbery which netted $20.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Viewers Addicted To TV Violence

In scientific and educational journals, more articles reporting studies and evaluation of TV, in relation to our children, have been written in recent years by Dr. Paul Witty than by any other author. He has a good article in the January 1962 issue of The PTA Magazine, in which he deplores the large amount of time pre-school and elementary school children spend at viewing TV, and the dulling of the child's sensitivity to human suffering. He relays a report, from a survey in Buffalo, that "kindergarten tots are at their TV sets half as much time as in their classroom", adding that, "offered a choice, many of the children would prefer a spanking to a parental blackout of their favorite program".

Dr. Garry Meyers

ACCORDING TO A recent Neilson report (January 1961) 46.9 million homes had one or more TV sets and viewing time averaged over six hours daily. Dr. Witty says his own studies in the Chicago area revealed that children of elementary school grades watched TV for 21 hours a week, reaching a peak in the sixth grade, declining thereafter with 14 hours a week in high school. The figures for parents were 20 hours per week.

Dr. Witty reports that children view "more variety shows, Westerns, adventure shows, crime and shock programs, comedies and science fiction than anything else".

As a rule, youngsters pass up the programs on educational stations, he says. Crime and variety shows grow more popular as children grow older, with crime and musical shows and adult Westerns gaining favor in adolescence.

Dr. Witty roughly estimates, for children under six, about 15 hours a week of viewing time.

HE EXPRESSES grave concern about the large amount of viewing time by children from two to 12 spent in passive, sedentary, often stultifying, pursuit. He says it would be too much time so spent even if all the programs were wholesome.

He notes that "reduction of creative ability and time spent at physical play tends to increase emotional problems among children".

He expresses concern that young children who view TV excessively might gradually come to accept violence, hate and destruction as almost normal ways of life.

"A widely - held opinion," he says, "is that repeated exposure to violence and brutality may blunt children's sensitivity to human suffering."

He suggests that parents of the young TV addict should ask:

—:—

IS HE OFTEN read to if too young to read alone?

Has he ample interesting materials to read and sufficient play equipment?

Doews he have abundant stimulation in creative fun with other children?

Dr. Witty advises parents to limit reasonably the child's TV viewing time and to work out with him wise selections of programs. Some day, my guess is, Dr. Witty will be more insistent that parents limit, even without persuasion, not only the amount of time a child watches TV but the types of programs he views.

A Meat-And-Fat Man Speaks His Mind

Currently the mails are flooded with queries asking, "How about this high - fat diet in which calories do not count?" One man, who preferred not to sign his name, implies that your dietitian has been fooling the overweight public for years. To quote from his long letter, herein condensed:

Ida Jean Kain

"In a new book which shows you how to eat all you want and stay thin, the doctor hits every one of your diet ideas, making you look like the fraud you probably are. He advocates using a high - fat diet and contends he lost 64 pounds in eight months, and kept the pounds off.

"I am very similar to that doctor who wrote the book and have had a weight problem for at least 15 years.

I WILL GO on a diet, lose weight and as soon as I stop the diet, my weight jumps to an even higher level than before the diet.

"Now this doctor's food program eliminates sweets and carbohydrates, but it lets you have three complete full meals every day. Certainly a pound of meat for supper couldn't be classed as starvation.

"If there is anything detrimental to health it is the crash diets you dietitians set up. Out of the 10,000 that you've had contact with who have dieted, how many lost weight? And how many held the weightline for even two years?

"I think you are sending out bunk and you know it won't work before you send it out. I am looking forward to eating three complete meals and gradually having my weight drop down to normal and stay there." He signs himself "A Meat and Fat Man."

Well, now let's see. The gentleman, inspired as he sounds, had not yet tried the high-fat, low carbohydrate plan. When he does he will lose 10 or even 12 pounds "like magic". A high - fat diet changes the body's metabolism so that the kidneys must secrete more fluid than they would normally.

This process tends to dehydrate the body tissues and consequently weight drops rapidly. Beyond this initial spurt there will be no more changes in weight than can be accounted for by the actual fat loss, regulated by calorie intake and expenditure. This high-fat diet will satisfy the appetite, and due to the fact that the fats are unsaturated, it will probably not be harmful.

He is right on the faddy diet score, "crash" diets are the bunk. He is wrong when he puts the blame for them on scientifically trained dietitians. We dietitians just don't believe in faddy, lopsided diets!

Land Purchases Are Reported For Parks, Forestry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Natural Resources Director Herbert B. Eagon, in a letter to Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, says the state has purchased about 7,800 acres of strip-mine land for park and forestry purposes in the last 2½ years.

This acreage, Eagon told the governor Monday, in effect is all that is available for purchase by the state.

He said the 1959 legislature appropriated $200,000 to buy such land and that $53,000 of the appropriation was allowed to lapse because there was no more land to buy.

The Eagon letter was an obvious reply to a campaign statement by Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy, DiSalle's primary election rival, that the state should buy more strip-mine land for park purposes.

Eagon said the recent purchases cover about 4,400 acres in Perry County, 1,320 in Harrison County and 2,100 in Jefferson.

Cousins Sentenced

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two years in federal prison for Lurman Terry Rumley, 31, and six months for his cousin, Roscoe Jones, 46, both of Hamilton, were the sentences ordered Monday in U. S. District Court for cattle rustling.

Taft Says Steel, Kennedy Battle Preliminary Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—State Rep. Robert Taft Jr. said the steel skirmish between President Kennedy and Big Steel was a "preliminary to a battle which seems to be shaping up between a free or a planned economy for the United States."

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Midwest Industrial Marketing Conference Monday night, the Republican candidate for congressman at large for Ohio said the steel situation is of immense importance.

He told the 320 persons at the dinner:

"Groups such as you are experts in presenting ideas and selling them. If you believe we are facing a crisis in which we may be under the danger of abandoning our free system . . . you can do much to sell the American people on the need for checking increased controls and turning toward the solution of our problems by helping private individuals and local governments to solve them, rather than abandon them to the decisions of remote authority in our federal government."

Viewers Addicted To TV Violence

In scientific and educational journals, more articles reporting studies and evaluation of TV, in relation to our children, have been written in recent years by Dr. Paul Witty than by any other author. He has a good article in the January 1962 issue of The PTA Magazine, in which he deplores the large amount of time pre-school and elementary school children spend at viewing TV, and the dulling of the child's sensitivity to human suffering. He relays a report, from a survey in Buffalo, that "kindergarten tots are at their TV sets half as much time as in their classroom", adding that, "offered a choice, many of the children would prefer a spanking to a parental blackout of their favorite program".

ACCORDING TO A recent Neilson report (January 1961) 46.9 million homes had one or more TV sets and viewing time averaged over six hours daily. Dr. Witty says his own studies in the Chicago area revealed that children of elementary school grades watched TV for 21 hours a week, reaching a peak in the sixth grade, declining thereafter with 14 hours a week in high school. The figures for parents were 20 hours per week.

Dr. Witty reports that children view "more variety shows, Westerns, adventure shows, crime and shock programs, comedies and science fiction than anything else".

As a rule, youngsters pass up the programs on educational stations, he says. Crime and variety shows grow more popular as children grow older, with crime and musical shows and adult Westerns gaining favor in adolescence.

Dr. Witty roughly estimates, for children under six, about 15 hours a week of viewing time.

HE EXPRESSES grave concern about the large amount of viewing time by children from two to 12 spent in passive, sedentary, often stultifying, pursuit. He says it would be too much time so spent even if all the programs were wholesome.

He notes that "reduction of creative ability and time spent at physical play tends to increase emotional problems among children".

He expresses concern that young children who view TV excessively might gradually come to accept violence, hate and destruction as almost normal ways of life.

"A widely - held opinion," he says, "is that repeated exposure to violence and brutality may blunt children's sensitivity to human suffering."

He suggests that parents of the young TV addict should ask:

—:—

IS HE OFTEN read to if too young to read alone?

Has he ample interesting materials to read and sufficient play equipment?

Doews he have abundant stimulation in creative fun with other children?

Dr. Witty advises parents to limit reasonably the child's TV viewing time and to work out with him wise selections of programs. Some day, my guess is, Dr. Witty will be more insistent that parents limit, even without persuasion, not only the amount of time a child watches TV but the types of programs he views.

A Meat-And-Fat Man Speaks His Mind

Currently the mails are flooded with queries asking, "How about this high - fat diet in which calories do not count?" One man, who preferred not to sign his name, implies that your dietitian has been fooling the overweight public for years. To quote from his long letter, herein condensed:

Pirates Extend Winning Streak To 5

The Review Sports

MONDAY, APRIL 17, 1962 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 16

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Don't Get Hopes Too High . . .

The fine start by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first week of the National League season has some of their backers steamed up, including yours truly. But before we go overboard, a word of caution is in order.

Pittsburgh is in first place for two reasons. One, the outstanding defense thrown up by Danny Murtaugh's boys, and two a break in the schedule. Not counting the early innings of Sunday's second game at New York, the Buccos have operated almost flawlessly in the field. Even Dick Stuart is making some beautiful stops.

We saw Pittsburgh in the opening game last Tuesday against the Phillies and we haven't seen a Pirate team look any better. Dick Groat, who lost that extra speed last year, seems to have gotten it back. He made two plays in back of second base that reminded of his fine work in 1960 when the Bucs "went all the way".

However, the many members of the Pirate fraternity must remember that Pittsburgh has opened the 1962 slate with some easy pickings, first the Phils, who finished last in 1961, and the new New York Mets.

In fact the first 13 games are very much to Pittsburgh's advantage and the Pirates could go right on winning. Of course, two already have been rained out, one with Philadelphia and one with New York.

Murtaugh's boys conclude a two-game set in Chicago today, then go to Philadelphia for a pair before returning home this weekend to play host to the Mets.

But after that, look out. Coming up will be San Francisco, Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Cincinnati in that order. After those four clubs make an appearance, Pittsburgh fans will have a better idea of what to expect.

Happy Hunting Grounds . . .

THE JUNIOR tournament which opens tonight could be a happy hunting grounds for college coaches. At least three mentors from major schools are due here.

Jule Rivlin of Marshall, Red Manning of Duquesne and Eddie Melvin of Toledo said they will be on hand to look over the talent.

We talked to all three and they all seem to be interested in the same boys — Andy Ahijewych of Berlin Hiland, who will be performing for Eason's Insurance; Bob Bennett of Mt. Lebanon and Fleming Reynolds of Pittsburgh Fifth Ave., who are with Gip's All-Stars; Ted Thorne of Salem High, playing for Miner's Tavern; Don Spires of Stanton Local, Bob Ashton of Carnegie and Tony Yates of Uniontown, all members of the Gengarella five, and Leavi Davis of Steubenville Big Red, who will be in Freed's lineup.

THE TRI-STATE tournament hit its all-time low in teams and fans this year. Officials reported only about 300 adult tickets were sold for the three-night afffair.

Whether the event can survive another year remains to be seen. We feel that college players demand too much money from sponsors to play in the tourney and, therefore, the sponsors are becoming skeptical and refuse to back teams.

Also, the AAU and some conference rules keep players from performing in post-season tourneys. And the new American Basketball League has taken some of the performers. For example, Walt Mangham played here last year but he is with the Pittsburgh Rens now.

The Tri-State tourney is kept going by a few men who attempt to promote good basketball. They certainly do not derive any capital gain from it. The tournament marked its 37th year. We hope the 38th is better.

Morgan Praises South Sider . . .

BY MORGAN, the Geneva College football coach, speaking at the Midland Boosters Club "Appreciation Night" Sunday, praised the work of Dan Frazier, the former South Side gridder, during the past football season.

Frazier, a freshman at the Beaver Falls school, was pressed into action much faster than he or Morgan expected and according to Morgan did a "terrific job".

Frazier was scheduled to be the second string quarterback behind Joe DeNone, who was the top passer in the small college ranks during the 1960 season.

However, it was found that DeNone had attended another college for one year before enrolling at Geneva and since he had used up his four years was ruled ineligible.

This came only one day before Geneva opened its season and Frazier was pressed into action.

"I feel Frazier will make his mark on a national basis before he leaves Geneva," Morgan said.

DeNone, who will be graduated from Geneva this spring, has a tryout date with the Boston Patriots in July. To help pay his way through college, Joe plays guitar in a quartet at various night spots around the Beaver Valley.

—:—

CHICK DAVIES, who coached great teams at Duquesne, praised Red Manning Sunday when he said "that was a great coaching job done by Manning at Duquesne this season".

Manning had an overall record of 22-7 and took his Dukes to the semi-finals of the NIT.

Cincy Nips Braves, 2-1; Cards Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a long, uphill climb for Diomedes Olivo, who started out in the Dominican Republic and found the end of the rainbow in Chicago.

That's were the Pittsburgh rookie pitcher came up with the first victory of his major league career—at the age of 42—by hurling strong relief ball while the unbeaten Pirates were defeating Chicago's winless Cubs 6-5 Monday.

Coming on in relief in the fourth inning with the Pirates trailing 4-1, Olivo went 4 1-3 innings, checking the Cubs on four hits and a lone run while Pittsburgh rallied to win it and hand the lanky left-hander his pot of gold.

Olivo began his climb from Guayabin, reaching the first plateau eight years ago when he won his first berth in organized baseball with Havana of the International League. He had a trial with the Pirates in 1960 but had no record.

Back with Columbus of the International League last year, Olivo won 11, lost 7 and compiled a 2.01 earned run average that got him another shot with the parent club. Now, when most pitchers are looking forward to a rocking chair, he's just getting started.

The victory gave the Pirates a 5-0 record. St. Louis remained undefeated, belting Philadelphia 12-6 for victory No. 4. In other games, San Francisco clobbered Los Angeles 19-8 and Cincinnati edged Milwaukee 2-1.

Houston and New York were postponed due to cold weather. There were no games scheduled in the American League.

The Phils and Cards each scored six times in the first inning before a solo homer by Gene Oliver off Don Ferrarese in the third put St. Louis ahead to stay behind the relief pitching of Ernie Broglio. Broglio, who took over in that wild first, limited the Phils to five hits the rest of the way. Oliver was 3-for-5 with two RBI while Bill White and rookie Doug Clemens each drove in three runs.

Felipe Alou's solo homer and a two-run shot by Jim Davenport, both off Dodgers starter Stan Williams in the second inning, gave the Giants an edge they never relinquished. Willie Mays also homered for San Francisco, hitting No. 4 with two on in the sixth. The Giants wound up with 12 hits and made the most of 10 walks and three Dodger errors plus asteal of home by Orlando Cepeda. Billy O'Dell was the winner, going the distance although allowing 15 hits.

Joey Jay, a 21-game winner who had lost his first two starts, went the distance to gain the victory for the Reds by holding the Braves to eight hits. Frank Robinson accounted for both Cincinnati runs with a bases-loaded double in the sixth that handed the loss to former American Leaguer Bob Shaw.

Opener Set For 7 At M-A

Junior Cage Tourney Rated Tossup; 4 Contests Launch Action Tonight

The 14th annual Junior Tournament will have to be rated a toss-up among the nine participants as the drive to the title opens tonight at Memorial Auditorium.

Any one of the nine teams stands a chance to capture the tourney. Although the field is small, it represents some of the leading high school talent in the Tri-State area.

The tournament will get off to a flying start with two powerful outfits. In the opener at 7, Gip's All-Stars of Pittsburgh battle the American Billiards.

Gip's is seeking its second post-season crown after winning all the marbles at New Castle earlier this month. Fleming Reynolds, who performed for Pittsburgh Fifth Ave., and Bob Bennett of Mt. Lebanon are the two big guns for the Steel City Five.

AMERICAN Billiards landed an outstanding club over the weekend. The East Liverpool entry will be made up of the top players from the Martins Ferry and Wheeling area including Bob Wacker and Larry Fish who were members of the Martins Ferry varsity this season.

The second game at 8 between Freed's of East Liverpool and Miner's Tavern is drawing much attention.

That will pit Salem High School, performing for Miners, against some topnotch cagers from Steubenville Big Red and Weirton who will be playing under the banner of Freed's.

—:—

MINER'S will be led here by Ted Thorne and Bob Eskay of Salem along with several members of the all-winning Liberty High team from the Youngstown area.

Eason's and Riverview Florists take the floor at 9 in another tossup. The star-studded Eason lineup includes the "Big A," Andy Ahijewych, the 6-foot-5 star from Berlin Hiland who led his team to the state Class A finals this past season.

However, the Eason five may have to open the tournament without Ahijewych, since his school is having its awards banquet tonight. His coach, Dave Scott, said he will attempt to have his star here.

George Kurtz, a 6-foot-8 performer from Conotton Valley, and Jack Baker, the Salineville whiz, will also be in the Eason lineup.

RIVERVIEW is loaded with talent from Youngstown South along with Bob Dove, the 6-foot-7 product from Canfield High. From South will be Roy White and John Tensley.

The finale at 10 sends Gengarella's of Midland out to defend its crown won a year ago. Gengarella's has Don Spires of Stanton Local, the outstanding Don Yates of Uniontown, Bob Ashton of Carnegie and Al Aloi, Midland's top scorer from last season.

Gengarella's will be meeting Buck's of New Cumberland, which is made up of the New Cumberland varsity this past season along with Mick Staley, Newell's four-year veteran and great scorer this past campaign.

All games will be played in regulation time under Ohio high school rules. The tournament continues Thursday with three games, while the championship and consolation games will be played Saturday.

PITTSBURGH'S BILLY VIRDON comes sliding home on his face and is tagged out at the plate by Cubs catcher Moe Thacker. Virdon attempted to score from third base when Bob Skinner flied to Jim McKnight of the Chicago Cubs in right field during the sixth inning of the Cubs-Pirates game Monday at Chicago. The Pirates won, 6-5. (UPI Telephoto)

Midland Nine 'Walks' Past Monaca, 6-3

Midland took advantage of 12 walks given up by Monaca pitching and gained a 6-3 victory Monday at home, marking its first start in Section 4 play.

Trailing 1-0 after the first inning, the Leopards came up with three runs in the second, but Monaca came back to tie the score at 3-3 with two markers in the top of the fourth.

Midland pushed across the winning runs in its half of the fourth when Pete Cilli's double with the bases loaded sent two runners across the plate.

Doyle picked up the pitching victory for Midland.

Potter Golf Team Beaten

East Liverpool High's golf squad, off to a good start but erratic in the late stages, bowed to Youngstown Ursuline, 11-2, Monday at the Country Club.

The Potters absorbed their first defeat in two matches, and returns to action today at 3 at the Country Club against Weirton. The squad will vie with Big Red and Catholic Central in a triangular match Wednesday in Steubenville.

Bob Putt, Potter star, carded a five over par 41 in yesterday's action, taking bogeys on the final two holes. He was matched with Jim Taylor of Ursuline, who carded a 40.

A player for the visitors shot 38 to win medalist honors. Other Potter scorers were Bob Gilmore 45, Bruce Burbick 49 and John Rohrer 56. Dave Thorne was fifth man.

Patterson-Liston Battle Scheduled In September

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson will defend the world heavyweight boxing title against Sonny Liston in September. The fight probably will be held in a New York ball park although the Cotton Bowl in Dallas is a possibility.

Everything was to have been settled Monday according to a contract signed March 16. Patterson was to have designated the date and place on or before April 16.

The Boxing Writers' Association sent out word that an important announcement would be made at a luncheon.

Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports, Inc., the promoting group, was the first speaker.

"The fight will be held Sept. 17 at Yankee Stadium or Sept. 26 at the Polo Grounds," Bolan began. "Two possibilities may prevent the fight from being held in New York. However, I have every reason to think it will be held in New York."

The reasons?

"No. 1. The New York State Athletic Commission must approve. Liston will file an application tomorrow (Tuesday). Gen. Krulewitch (Chairman Melvin Krulewitch) has assured me of a quick decision. No, he gave no assurance whether he would decide one way or another.

"If they do not give Liston a license, we are prepared to move quickly to some other site where he is licensed."

Liston's attorney, Morton Witkin, said in Philadelphia, "All we know is that we've been invited to New York and we're going."

For reason No. 2 Bolan yielded the microphone to Julius November, a man of many syllables who is Patterson's attorney.

"A Texas group made an offer of $1 million for the fight over the weekend," he said.

November did not identify the "Texas group" more than to say they were from Dallas or Houston. He did say he understood the Cotton Bowl was available.

Celts Even NBA Series With Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers fight it out Wednesday night in Boston for the National Basketball Association championship.

"We blew it; we let 'em off the hook," weary Laker Coach Fred Schaus said as he trudged to the dressing room after the Celtics had won the sixth game Monday night, 119-105. "But we've won two games in Boston and there's no reason why we can't win another."

Celtic team leader Bob Cousy sees it differently.

"Now that we've got the Lakers in Boston we'll beat them," he said. "This is the kind of club that meets the big challenge. We can have our backs to the wall, and when all seems lost, we come through."

The Lakers looked like winners when they beat the defending NBA champs in Boston last Saturday night and they looked like winners when they started fast and had a 65-57 lead at the end of the first half Monday night.

But the Celtics made an almost unbelievable comeback in the third quarter, scoring 34 points and bottling up the Lakers' one-two punch, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West. Los Angeles could get only 16 points in this quarter, and although they made a belated run for it late in the final period, Cousy's two clutch 20-foot push shots put the chill on their rally.

Pirates Extend Winning Streak To 5

MONDAY, APRIL 17, 1962 EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 16

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Don't Get Hopes Too High . . .

The fine start by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first week of the National League season has some of their backers steamed up, including yours truly. But before we go overboard, a word of caution is in order.

Pittsburgh is in first place for two reasons. One, the outstanding defense thrown up by Danny Murtaugh's boys, and two a break in the schedule. Not counting the early innings of Sunday's second game at New York, the Buccos have operated almost flawlessly in the field. Even Dick Stuart is making some beautiful stops.

We saw Pittsburgh in the opening game last Tuesday against the Phillies and we haven't seen a Pirate team look any better. Dick Groat, who lost that extra speed last year, seems to have gotten it back. He made two plays in back of second base that reminded of his fine work in 1960 when the Bucs "went all the way".

However, the many members of the Pirate fraternity must remember that Pittsburgh has opened the 1962 slate with some easy pickings, first the Phils, who finished last in 1961, and the new New York Mets.

In fact the first 13 games are very much to Pittsburgh's advantage and the Pirates could go right on winning. Of course, two already have been rained out, one with Philadelphia and one with New York.

Murtaugh's boys conclude a two-game set in Chicago today, then go to Philadelphia for a pair before returning home this weekend to play host to the Mets.

But after that, look out. Coming up will be San Francisco, Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Cincinnati in that order. After those four clubs make an appearance, Pittsburgh fans will have a better idea of what to expect.

Happy Hunting Grounds . . .

THE JUNIOR tournament which opens tonight could be a happy hunting grounds for college coaches. At least three mentors from major schools are due here.

Jule Rivlin of Marshall, Red Manning of Duquesne and Eddie Melvin of Toledo said they will be on hand to look over the talent.

We talked to all three and they all seem to be interested in the same boys — Andy Ahijewych of Berlin Hiland, who will be performing for Eason's Insurance; Bob Bennett of Mt. Lebanon and Fleming Reynolds of Pittsburgh Fifth Ave., who are with Gip's All-Stars; Ted Thorne of Salem High, playing for Miner's Tavern; Don Spires of Stanton Local, Bob Ashton of Carnegie and Tony Yates of Uniontown, all members of the Gengarella five, and Leavi Davis of Steubenville Big Red, who will be in Freed's lineup.

THE TRI-STATE tournament hit its all-time low in teams and fans this year. Officials reported only about 300 adult tickets were sold for the three-night afffair.

Whether the event can survive another year remains to be seen. We feel that college players demand too much money from sponsors to play in the tourney and, therefore, the sponsors are becoming skeptical and refuse to back teams.

Also, the AAU and some conference rules keep players from performing in post-season tourneys. And the new American Basketball League has taken some of the performers. For example, Walt Mangham played here last year but he is with the Pittsburgh Rens now.

The Tri-State tourney is kept going by a few men who attempt to promote good basketball. They certainly do not derive any capital gain from it. The tournament marked its 37th year. We hope the 38th is better.

Morgan Praises South Sider . . .

BY MORGAN, the Geneva College football coach, speaking at the Midland Boosters Club "Appreciation Night" Sunday, praised the work of Dan Frazier, the former South Side gridder, during the past football season.

Frazier, a freshman at the Beaver Falls school, was pressed into action much faster than he or Morgan expected and according to Morgan did a "terrific job".

Frazier was scheduled to be the second string quarterback behind Joe DeNone, who was the top passer in the small college ranks during the 1960 season.

However, it was found that DeNone had attended another college for one year before enrolling at Geneva and since he had used up his four years was ruled ineligible.

This came only one day before Geneva opened its season and Frazier was pressed into action. "I feel Frazier will make his mark on a national basis before he leaves Geneva," Morgan said.

DeNone, who will be graduated from Geneva this spring, has a tryout date with the Boston Patriots in July. To help pay his way through college, Joe plays guitar in a quartet at various night spots around the Beaver Valley.

—:—

CHICK DAVIES, who coached great teams at Duquesne, praised Red Manning Sunday when he said "that was a great coaching job done by Manning at Duquesne this season".

Manning had an overall record of 22-7 and took his Dukes to the semi-finals of the NIT.

Cincy Nips Braves, 2-1; Cards Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a long, uphill climb for Diomedes Olivo, who started out in the Dominican Republic and found the end of the rainbow in Chicago.

That's were the Pittsburgh rookie pitcher came up with the first victory of his major league career—at the age of 42—by hurling strong relief ball while the unbeaten Pirates were defeating Chicago's winless Cubs 6-5 Monday.

Coming on in relief in the fourth inning with the Pirates trailing 4-1, Olivo went 4 1-3 innings, checking the Cubs on four hits and a lone run while Pittsburgh rallied to win it and hand the lanky left-hander his pot of gold.

Olivo began his climb from Guayabin, reaching the first plateau eight years ago when he won his first berth in organized baseball with Havana of the International League. He had a trial with the Pirates in 1960 but had no record.

Back with Columbus of the International League last year, Olivo won 11, lost 7 and compiled a 2.01 earned run average that got him another shot with the parent club. Now, when most pitchers are looking forward to a rocking chair, he's just getting started.

The victory gave the Pirates a 5-0 record. St. Louis remained undefeated, belting Philadelphia 12-6 for victory No. 4. In other games, San Francisco clobbered Los Angeles 19-8 and Cincinnati edged Milwaukee 2-1.

Houston and New York were postponed due to cold weather. There were no games scheduled in the American League.

The Phils and Cards each scored six times in the first inning before a solo homer by Gene Oliver off Don Ferrarese in the third put St. Louis ahead to stay behind the relief pitching of Ernie Broglio. Broglio, who took over in that wild first, limited the Phils to five hits the rest of the way. Oliver was 3-for-5 with two RBI while Bill White and rookie Doug Clemens each drove in three runs.

Felipe Alou's solo homer and a two-run shot by Jim Davenport, both off Dodgers starter Stan Williams in the second inning, gave the Giants an edge they never relinquished. Willie Mays also homered for San Francisco, hitting No. 4 with two on in the sixth. The Giants wound up with 12 hits and made the most of 10 walks and three Dodger errors plus asteal of home by Orlando Cepeda. Billy O'Dell was the winner, going the distance although allowing 15 hits.

Joey Jay, a 21-game winner who had lost his first two starts, went the distance to gain the victory for the Reds by holding the Braves to eight hits. Frank Robinson accounted for both Cincinnati runs with a bases-loaded double in the sixth that handed the loss to former American Leaguer Bob Shaw.

Celts Even NBA Series With Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers fight it out Wednesday night in Boston for the National Basketball Association championship.

"We blew it; we let 'em off the hook," weary Laker Coach Fred Schaus said as he trudged to the dressing room after the Celtics had won the sixth game Monday night, 119-105. "But we've won two games in Boston and there's no reason why we can't win another."

Patterson-Liston Battle Scheduled In September

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson will defend the world heavyweight boxing title against Sonny Liston in September. The fight probably will be held in a New York ball park although the Cotton Bowl in Dallas is a possibility.

Everything was to have been settled Monday according to a contract signed March 16. Patterson was to have designated the date and place on or before April 16.

The Boxing Writers' Association sent out word that an important announcement would be made at a luncheon.

Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports, Inc., the promoting group, was the first speaker.

"The fight will be held Sept. 17 at Yankee Stadium or Sept. 26 at the Polo Grounds," Bolan began. "Two possibilities may prevent the fight from being held in New York. However, I have every reason to think it will be held in New York."

The reasons?

"No. 1. The New York State Athletic Commission must approve. Liston will file an application tomorrow (Tuesday). Gen. Krulewitch (Chairman Melvin Krulewitch) has assured me of a quick decision. No, he gave no assurance whether he would decide one way or another.

"If they do not give Liston a license, we are prepared to move quickly to some other site where he is licensed."

Liston's attorney, Morton Witkin, said in Philadelphia, "All we know is that we've been invited to New York and we're going."

For reason No. 2 Bolan yielded the microphone to Julius November, a man of many syllables who is Patterson's attorney.

"A Texas group made an offer of $1 million for the fight over the weekend," he said.

November did not identify the "Texas group" more than to say they were from Dallas or Houston. He did say he understood the Cotton Bowl was available.

Third-Party Talks Set In Paper Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Executives of the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News awaited word today on whether their newspapers may be able to resume publication while their labor dispute with the Teamsters Union is subjected to third-party mediation.

Meanwhile, this city faced its fifth day without a newspaper since Local 372 of the Teamsters Union struck the morning Free Press last Wednesday night.

Hopes for a break in the stalemate developed late Monday after the Detroit Newspapers Publishers Association, which represents both papers in contract bargaining with the union, agreed to a proposal by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, to call in a mediator.

Third-Party Talks Set In Paper Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Executives of the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News awaited word today on whether their newspapers may be able to resume publication while their labor dispute with the Teamsters Union is subjected to third-party mediation.

Meanwhile, this city faced its fifth day without a newspaper since Local 372 of the Teamsters Union struck the morning Free Press last Wednesday night.

Hopes for a break in the stalemate developed late Monday after the Detroit Newspapers Publishers Association, which represents both papers in contract bargaining with the union, agreed to a proposal by Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, to call in a mediator.

"You should be happy here, Rollo, but if after a month you find you can't live on your salary, come in and I'll fire you."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove some paint that has been spilled on concrete floors or driveways?

A. By scrubbing with a strong solution of lye water, then rinsing the concrete well with clear water.

Q. How can I remove fingermarks from polished furniture tops?

A. Use a cloth saturated in olive oil. When applying your wax polish, use as little as possible, and rub until the surface is free of film. If you do this conscientiously, your furniture will increase in attractiveness.

Q. How can I clean stained kid shoes?

A. Regular cleaning fluid will usually go a good job, but if none is at hand, you can use ordinary cuticle remover. Moisten a cloth with it, and rub over the spots.

Q. How can I remove paint and putty stains from window glass?

A. Use a wet cloth dipped in baking soda, and rub over the glass. After 15 minutes, wash with warm water without soap, then rub until dry, and polish.

Q. How can I make some light, fluffy fillings for some cushions I am sewing?

A. Cut a roll of cotton into small squares and heat these in the oven for a half-hour. Don't let them scorch. Each square will swell to twice its original size.

Q. What do you suggest as the easiest method of painting chairs or stools?

A. The generally - approved method is to turn them bottom-side up and paint the legs and rounds first.

Q. How can I remove those annoying and unsightly fuzz balls that sometimes collect on sweaters?

A. These can be whisked off very easily with a dry sponge.

Junior Editors Quiz on RAIN

QUESTION: How does seeding clouds cause rain?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: It does not always cause rain. First, of course, there must be a promising-looking cloud to seed. The seeder must find a cloud that should be producing rain but is not. Then he flies an airplane above it and drops finely-ground dry ice into the cloud. Scientists have discovered that a piece of dry ice about the size of a grain of rice can cause the formation of about three trillion ice crystals, if the cloud is cold enough to begin with. Water droplets in the cloud condense on the ice crystals. The crystals grow bigger and bigger until they are heavy enough to sink down where they strike warmer air and turn into rain. Unfortunately, cold enough clouds of the proper type do not always turn up where they are needed. Scientists are still experimenting with dry ice and with a new material called silver iodide. Eventually they hope to be able to produce rain anywhere. When they finally do succeed, desert areas might turn into farmland, and existing farmland will become even more productive.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Until scientists learn how to produce rain whenever and wherever the rain is needed, much of this country will have to rely upon irrigation. See if you can find out how land is irrigated.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about the employer who complained because all the young punks he interviewed were interested in "how much is the pay, how much time do I get off and what is the retirement plan?"

Why doesn't this boss try interviewing older people — like 35 years and up? He might be surprised to learn that an older person may bring valuable qualifications to a job — such as experience, maturity and dependability.

I'm a woman past 40 who was widowed two years ago. My secretarial skills were topnotch in 1945, so I decided to go back to business school and brush up. After a few weeks of practice I was as sharp as ever.

Armed with excellent (though dated) references I went out to find a job. For three weeks I tramped the streets and heard the same old line time and time again: "Sorry, you're too old."

Finally, a personnel director took pity on me after I tearfully confessed I'd been job hunting for three weeks and was beginning to lose confidence in myself. She agreed to give me a try.

Today I am managing the office. My boss says he wouldn't trade me for all the young girls in the office put together. Please print my letter. Perhaps some of those rockheads who turned me down will see it and get smart — ENERGY PLUS.

Soft Heart And Head

Dear Ann: Please don't be too hard on me. Lonely people sometimes do foolish things. I'd appreciate it if you'd tell me how to get this man out of my house.

I am a widow, past 40. This very attractive fellow used to have lunch at the same counter I did. He smiled, started to speak, and before I knew it we were holding hands.

He gave me a hard-luck story — separated, but his wife won't give him a divorce, a song writer who can't get a break, out of money and behind in his rent. So I let him bring his clothes over to my place.

He sleeps till noon, won't even look for a job, and does nothing but play the piano and smoke my cigarettes.

He says he loves me and it's a shame we can't get married. I was stupid to get into this mess. What shall I do now?— GLADYS OF THE BRONX.

-:-

Dear Gladys: Why don't YOU write a little song entitled "Gladys Isn't Gratis Anymore" and sing it to him as you hand him his suitcase? Tell him he must clear out because you are leaving the state. Then take a ferry to New Jersey for the day.

Fed Up With Mother

Dear Ann: I am 16 years old and up to here with my mother. She has a talent for saying the the wrong thing at the right time. For example, when I leave the house with a date she'll say "Be sure to turn off the porch light when you come home. We don't own the utility, you know."

"Isn't that dumb? I KNOW we don't own the utility company. Why does she have to remind me?

The other day I accidentally dropped a bar of soap in the wash basin and forgot to pull the plug. When my mother emptied the basin she found the soap, all mushy and mostly dissolved. She came out to the living room (with the soap in her hand) and in the presence of a girl friend said, "Our last name isn't Procter or Gamble. Please be more careful with the soap in the future."

I almost died of embarrassment.

Why do mothers do this? What can I do to protect myself against her dumb remarks? Thank you. — JILL.

-:-

Dear Jill. Mothers do this because they are human. And you can "protect yourself against her dumb remarks" by turning off the lights and being more careful with the soap.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Let Minds Roam Field'

Ike Hints GOP May Pick Newcomer For '64 Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suggests the Republican party might want to choose a comparative newcomer to national prominence as its 1964 presidential candidate.

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post, Eisenhower says: "Maybe one well-known—maybe not. We should let our minds roam the field.

"We have many able young men in Congress, a number of personable and competent Republican governors.

"There are men in private life—in business, education and the professions—who should not be counted out. We cannot overlook the possibility that one of these men may emerge and become a person of national stature during the next two years."

The former president devoted most of the article, "Ike Takes a Look At the GOP," to criticizing Republican pessimism and urging the GOP to build at the local level.

Discussing elections this fall, Eisenhower touched on Michigan, California, Pennsylvania and New York.

"The first three of these now have Democratic governors," he said. "And if we can capture those and hold New York where it is now, in the Republican column, we will have made a significant gain."

He said people frequently ask him what he thinks of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's chances of winning the California gubernatorial race.

"I think they are good," Eisenhower added.

Eisenhower declared he felt the party should be looking forward, not backward, and said he belonged to the past.

"This statement does not mean that I want to be forgotten," he explained. "I like to be consulted on important party and governmental matters, and I want to give what help I can.

"But the time has come when I should not be a focal point of Republican activity and planning."

Ring Bells Thursday, Mayor Requests City

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet has proclaimed Thursday as "Bells Across the Nation Day" in East Liverpool and urged the ringing of all bells, chimes and carillons for four minutes beginning at 1 p. m.

Sponsored by the Ohio American Legion, April 19 — commemorated in some states as Patriots' Day — is the anniversary of the date in 1775 when Lexington minutemen were called by the ringing of bells and rallied to the "shot heard 'round the world."

The mayor's proclamation urged citizens respond to the bell ringing to show "Americans have not lost the spirit of the minutemen nor the willingness to fight if necessary to retain their freedom."

Special Prober To Inspect Skull

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hamilton County officials have sent a special investigator to Gainesville, Fla., to learn if a skull found near that city is that of John C. Jackson, 20, killed last Jan. 21.

County Prosecutor C. Watson Hover said Monday night, "Based on the information already received, it is probable that this skull is that of the Jackson youth."

The special investigator, Ernest Taylor, took Jackson's dental records to help in identification.

John A. Cooper, 41, Jackson's stepfather, is in county jail under $20,000 bond on charges of manslaughter and mutilation of a body in the boy's death.

Police said he admitted killing the youth with a hammer in a brawl at their suburban North College Hill home. He told officers he cut up the body with a butcher knife and scattered the pieces from a car while traveling through Florida and Georgia.

Tiffin Truck Relay Station To Be Closed

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—The closing of the Cooper-Jarrett, Inc truck relay station here will result in the loss of 50 jobs and an annual payroll of nearly $400,000 to Tiffin.

The company announced Monday the relay operation here will be abandoned when new facilities north of Richfield in Summit County are ready.

McElroy Urges Plant Location Service Be Set

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —A plant location service within the State Department of Industrial and Economic Development was proposed today by Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy in his campaigning for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

He told the Bowling Green Exchange Club that "plants seeking new locations could be lured to Ohio by a highly organized plant location service which could provide firms with a detailed analysis of locations within Ohio that are suited to their needs."

McElroy said the service would save "a great deal of money" for companies seeking new plant sites. Some private consulting firms get as high as $20,000 for a report to a client, he said.

The campaigner also added that the reports collected by the proposed state plant location service could be used by communities to determine what they must do to attract industry.

Water, Sewage Systems Installed In Community

Facilities for water and sewage, seldom provided in most countryside developments, are "bonus" features of rustic Calcutta Acres.

No sick water or messy sewage problems here.

Contractor Paul M. Brown has installed complete systems to serve adequately the needs of his 29 special "customers" who live there.

Of course, there are false rumors of tainted water and the usual problems connected with septic tanks that have wrongly indicted Calcutta Acres with areas nearby.

A 30,000 gallon central water supply system, drawing fresh, clear water from a deep well on a hillside, and sewage lines that serve all dwelling in the community eliminate any trouble and of course, foul odors.

Mr. Brown maintains the facilities himself, with only a small $4 monthly charge to the homeowner. The nominal charge seems especially advantageous when compared to reports of mounting water and sewage bills of nearby cities.

The sewage lines, of course, are out of sight beneath paved streets and neatly-kept yards. The system has functioned perfectly and the huge water storage tank has proved more than adequate for the residents.

Calcutta Acres is the only district sub-division with a central water and sewage system, not to hollow honor indeed!

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about the employer who complained because all the young punks he interviewed were interested in "how much is the pay, how much time do I get off and what is the retirement plan?"

Why doesn't this boss try interviewing older people — like 35 years and up? He might be surprised to learn that an older person may bring valuable qualifications to a job — such as experience, maturity and dependability.

I'm a woman past 40 who was widowed two years ago. My secretarial skills were topnotch in 1945, so I decided to go back to business school and brush up. After a few weeks of practice I was as sharp as ever.

Armed with excellent (though dated) references I went out to find a job. For three weeks I tramped the streets and heard the same old line time and time again: "Sorry, you're too old."

Finally, a personnel director took pity on me after I tearfully confessed I'd been job hunting for three weeks and was beginning to lose confidence in myself. She agreed to give me a try.
